Rickover Is Promoted to Vice Admiral

Washington — (A) — Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, pioneer in the atomic submarine field, is getting the promotion his congressional backers have demanded.

The White House announced yesterday that Rickover has been upped to vice admiral, subject to senate approval next year. His new 3-star rank is to be effective while Rickover heads the atomic energy commission's naval reactors branch.

Credited with fostering the nation's first nuclear submarine, Rickover has been a center of controversy from time to time during his career. Some of this controversy stemmed from his reported readiness to brush aside navy red tape in order to further the nuclear sub program.

Passed Over by Navy
Five years ago, congressional outcries played a big part in getting Rickover 2-star flag rank. At that time, he had been passed over twice by navy selection boards when his name came up for promotion.

The most recent furor developed last August when Rickover was left off guest list for a White House ceremony marking the history-making voyage of the atomic submarine Nautilus beneath the North pole.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said at the time invitations were limited to top officials and that there wasn't enough room for Rickover and some others. Later, Eisenhower made Rickover his personal representative at welcome-home ceremonies for the Nautilus.

Some congress members regarded omission of Rickover from the White House affair as a snub of the 58-year-old atomic specialist and they coupled their objections with demands that he be promoted to vice admiral.

Weeks' letter dated Oct. 22, contained his resignation. He recalled that he had conversed with Eisenhower on his departure several times and assured Eisenhower that in the future "if I can serve you in any way, you have only to call upon me."

The president accepted in a letter headed "Deary Sinny." He expressed sorrow that the departure of the New England industrialist was now so imminent, and added:

"I appreciate that you have already put off this unhappy event for quite some time, much to my benefit and the benefit of the nation. I accept your resignation as of Nov. 10 with keen regret that it will interrupt the warm and close association we have had."

The couple last was seen early Sunday morning in a tavern about two blocks from the mine. Police said cause of death had not been definitely established but that the couple apparently was overcome by gas fumes rising from the mine. There were no signs of violence.

The bodies were fully dressed. The man was in a sitting position against a concrete pillar. The woman had slumped to the ground.

Nixon Favors Party Buildup Of Rockefeller

Says He Supports Ike's Effort to Strengthen Party

Madison — (A) — Vice President Nixon said today he enthusiastically supports an effort by President Eisenhower to build men like Nelson Rockefeller into strong national Republican figures.

Nixon, who is expected to seek the 1960 GOP presidential nomination, predicted at a news conference that Rockefeller will be elected governor of New York and thus attain national prominence.

The vice president arrived in Madison for a 3-speech, 1-day swing around Wisconsin today.

Touching on other races that have drawn national attention, Nixon predicted the election of Republican Christopher Del Sesto as governor of Rhode Island. The vice president said Mark Hatfield, a GOP candidate who differs with the Eisenhower administration on power politics, has "a good chance" of winning the governorship of Oregon.

California Campaign
Nixon said that if the tempo of campaign efforts to enlist the support of independent Democrats can be maintained, "we can produce" a victory in California. Sen. William Knowland can be elected governor and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight can be elected senator there.

Without committing himself to 1960, Nixon said he had always felt President Eisenhower was correct when the president told him in 1955 that "the Republican party needs Rachel; another was his sister-in-law, Mrs. Webb (Jeanette) Cook, 18; and the third was Mrs. George Smith, mother of a girl Cook's younger brother was courting. The to build up a presidential successor.

The vice president said Eisenhower had called him in and asked him to make an important speech.

"I want you to make it because I am consciously trying to build up a number of strong leaders in the party," Nixon quoted Eisenhower as saying. As it turned out, Nixon said he couldn't arrange to make the particular speech.

Nixon said he felt the president had adopted a wise course.

"All of us current national figures will be helped by developing other national figures, no matter who is the candidate in 1960," he added.

78 Escape, 3 Bodies Found After Rock and Coal Fall To Seal Off Passageways

Springhill, Nova Scotia — (A) — A violent shift of rock in the depths of a coal mine today trapped 91 men, six of them supervisors. Hope of rescue grew dimmer by the hour.

Seventy-eight miners had reached safety. Three bodies were recovered. A company spokesman belatedly announced that six supervisors were with 85 men still trapped hours after tons of rock and coal came tumbling down from tunnel roofs, choking the passageways.

With tears in his eyes, the vice president and general manager of the Dominion Coal Co., H. M. C. Gordon, told newsmen that there is no hope for miners trapped on two levels of the mine. He added there is only a glimmer of hope for those on the third level.

Rescue workers have determined the location of 55 men trapped by fallen rock. But they have been unable to find the other 36, and it is for these that there remains some small measure of hope. A company spokesman, Arnold Patterson, talked with some of the survivors and told newsmen:

"The situation is not encouraging. It looks pretty grim. We are hopeful, of course."

A company official said a barrier of gas prevented rescue crews from reaching 55 of the men who had been working 13,000 feet from the pithead. The others were believed scattered in other parts of the mine.

One miner said he saw eight other bodies in his shaft, but this was not confirmed hours later.

Some Survivors Hurt
Some of the survivors were injured and had to be helped or carried out by rescue crews. A silent crowd shivered in a cold drizzle through the night as 5-man teams of draegermen—volunteer mine rescue workers—cleared rock and debris from dust-choked tunnels.

The draegermen wore respirators. One of the first survivors to come out said the "bump"—the miners' name for underground rock shifts of explosive force—had smashed the mine ventilation system and pockets of deadly gas were forming.

The mine is the No. 2 colliery of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Co., a subsidiary of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. Cumberland No. 2 adjoins the now-closed Cumberland No. 4, where an explosion and gas killed 39 persons in November, 1956. Two draegermen lost their lives in the rescue of 88 men after that disaster.

Tragedy in 1891
The worst mine accident in this town of 7,000 persons near the New Brunswick border was an explosion in 1891 that killed 125. Canada's worst mine disaster was at Hillcrest, Alberta, in 1914, when 193 were killed.

The bump occurred at 8:05 last night. Dishes tumbled from shelves in Springhill and houses also shook 14 miles away in Maccan. Veteran miners called it the worst in memory. Six smaller bumps between last March and Sept. 1 injured 14 men. The cause of bumps often is undetermined.

The mine slopes to a depth of 4,400 feet underground in a length of 14,300 feet, sometimes descending as steeply as 45 degrees. The company considers it North America's deepest coal pit.

Help poured into Springhill. A navy helicopter flew blood plasma from Halifax, 75 miles to the south. The Red Cross dispatched 50 beds to supplement the town's 20-bed hospital and a converted armory used as an emergency annex. The navy sent three ambulances.

Evacuate Women, Children From East Cuba Area

Havana — (A) — A U.S. Navy transport was to sail from Guantanamo bay today to evacuate about 55 American women and children from an area of eastern Cuba controlled by Fidel Castro's rebels.

The state department ordered the evacuation.

The 55 dependents will be removed from Nicaro, where about 25 American men work at a nickel plant owned by the U.S. government. The general manager of the plant and his assistant were among 50 Americans and Canadians kidnapped by rebels last June and later freed unharmed.

The rebels kidnapped two more American men and seven Cubans Monday from a Texaco refinery near Santiago, capital of Oriente province. They were released yesterday.

Montgomery argued that the United States and Britain together lost the chance to win the peace by failing to take necessary steps when it became clear that the allies were going to win the war against Hitler Germany.

Montgomery, who served as deputy when Eisenhower led the allied invasion armies into Europe, made these assertions:

1. The Atlantic alliance is badly placed in the global contest against the communists because the allies have confined the struggle to their own countries.

2. West European countries have displayed a "complete inability" to cooperate for the common good. As the threat of Soviet armed aggression lessened "so western unity began to weaken."

3. Nuclear war now is unlikely but Soviet pressure on

3 Women Slain By Farmhand

Teenaged Girl Wounded as Frenzied Man Runs Amuck

Lincolnton, N.C. — (A) — Three housewives were shot and killed near here today and a teenaged girl was wounded by a frenzied farmhand who apparently ran amuck.

About 50 officers, with bloodhounds, searched the hills of the Northbrook section while residents barred their windows and doors.

Police said they sought Roy Cook, 28-year-old farm laborer, recently released from prison for beating his wife.

One of the three victims was Cook's wife, 21-year-old Rachel; another was his sister-in-law, Mrs. Webb (Jeanette) Cook, 18; and the third was Mrs. George Smith, mother of a girl Cook's younger brother was courting. The to build up a presidential successor.

Howitzer Shells Blow Up in Freight Car

Rifle, Colo. — (A) — A freight car filled with deadly 8-inch howitzer shells blew up in Debeque canyon several miles west of here yesterday.

A Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad spokesman said the blast was caused by sparks from a broken journal. The explosion was heard for miles.

No one was injured on the 68-car train. Some unexploded shells were scattered along the track, and streamliners were delayed until late afternoon.

Ike Hails Recovery Without Inflation

Washington — (A) — President Eisenhower today hailed the announcement that the cost of living remained unchanged last month as proof that business recovery is possible without inflation.

"We must preserve this stability in the value of the dollar without recourse to stifling controls," Eisenhower said.

Bodies of Couple Found in Mine Shaft

Centralia, Ill. — (A) — The bodies of a man and a woman missing six days were found today in the air shaft of abandoned mine No. 5, where a coal dust explosion killed 111 men March 25, 1947.

Police identified them as Mrs. Virginia Goostree, 45, of Salem, Ill., and Bud Jenkins, 36, of Farina. The bodies were found by Vi Burkett of Wamac, a friend of Mrs. Goostree who had undertaken a search. Mrs. Goostree was a widow.

The couple last was seen early Sunday morning in a tavern about two blocks from the mine. Police said cause of death had not been definitely established but that the couple apparently was overcome by gas fumes rising from the mine. There were no signs of violence.

The bodies were fully dressed. The man was in a sitting position against a concrete pillar. The woman had slumped to the ground.

Red Guns Resume Shelling Quemoy

Unexplained 23-Hour Lull Ends; Nationalists Strike Back With Rounds From 8-Inch Howitzers

Taipei — (AP) — The Chinese communists resumed their artillery attacks on the Quemoy islands today after an unexplained 23-hour lull.

The Nationalists, equipped with 8-inch howitzers and other guns brought in during the 2-week - cease-fire, hit back.

The red guns, silent since noon Thursday, started blazing again at 11 a.m.

The communists first directed their fire against Little Quemoy and the nearby Tan islets, then extended it to Quemoy, largest fortress of the Nationalist offshore islands.

906 Rounds

The red shelling was comparatively light during the first two hours after it resumed. A total of 906 rounds were fired, most of them directed at the Tan islets. The volume of Nationalist counter-fire was not disclosed.

Associated Press Correspondent David Lancashire reported from Quemoy that with the halt in the red attack yesterday, Quemoy city had come to life for the first time since the cease - fire ended Monday.

Shops opened and streets filled with civilians and soldiers. A wedding party with a brass band blared gaily past.

At the first new explosions shutters went up hurriedly and the street crowds hurried to shelter.

More Punishment

Nationalist quarters claimed that Quemoy's defenders since Monday have inflicted more punishment than they have received. They said the island's guns had destroyed 43 communist guns, blown up 12 ammunition dumps, destroyed a motor pool housing 45 trucks and smashed one gun emplacement.

No figures were given on damage to the Nationalists.

The nationalists attributed their success to the better weapons they had received and to improved techniques learned from Brig. Gen. James F. Ammerman, artillery commander of the U. S. First cavalry division in Korea who visited Quemoy on an advisory mission during the cease-fire.

No Supply Convoys

Lancashire reported that no supply convoys had reached Quemoy for two days because of stormy weather but more were expected soon. "Even without them, we can last a long time, because the supply situation is good," Lt. Gen. Ko Yuan-Feng, acting commander of the Quemoy defense, said.

Ko said the army planned to start concrete shelters for the island's 40,000 civilians, who have been taking refuge in dark rock caves and holes.

So far there was no reaction from Peiping to President Chiang Kai-shek's renunciation of force as the principal means of returning to the mainland. The renunciation was in a communique issued yesterday by Chiang and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles at conclusion of their Formosa talks.

New Discount Rate Goes Into Effect Today

Doubt Boost Will Have Major Effect On Other Charges

Washington — (AP) — A new increase in the federal reserve system's discount rate goes into effect today. Financial circles doubted it would have any major impact on other interest charges.

The reserve board announced late yesterday that the discount rate would be increased to 2 1/2 per cent in five of the 12 reserve districts—Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Richmond, St. Louis and Dallas. Other districts will maintain the old 2 per cent rate for a time but are expected to adopt the increase later.

A hike in the discount, or interest charged when member banks borrow money from the reserve system, usually is intended to tighten credit and fight inflation.

A board spokesman indicated this latest increase — the second in about two months — was based on another consideration: A desire by the board to bring the rate closer into line with other short-term interest charges.

Notes Gap

The spokesman noted that the gap between the 2 per cent discount rate and the current 2.8 per cent yield on 91-day treasury bills was unusual.

The board normally keeps the discount rate higher than the bill rate, to discourage banks from borrowing to buy bills.

Wall streeters said the increase had been expected and that market prices had adjusted to it in advance. One bond expert said the increase might give an upward jolt to short term rates. However, he said this would be only temporary, and should not affect intermediate and long-term bond issues.

New York markets were closed when the announcement came.

On the Pacific coast exchange, still open then, stocks dipped slightly.

The discount rate has been changed five times this year. The first three moves, during the recession, were downward. On Aug. 15 the rate was increased to 2 per cent from its recession low of 1 1/2 per cent. The rate hit a "tight money" peak of 3 1/2 per cent last fall.

It was believed the new increase may have been hastened by a treasury decision this week to borrow another $3 billion early next month. The board traditionally avoids disturbing the money market during a treasury financing period. Had it not acted now, it might have been forced to wait until December.

Operation May Provide Cure for Some Strokes

Doctors Report Neck Surgery Method Will Relieve Clots in Lead Arteries

BY RENNIE TAYLOR

San Francisco — (AP) — An operation described by its originators as offering a way of successfully treating some kinds of stroke was reported here today.

Stroke is a paralysis of some body function such as sight, speech or movement. It is due to the stoppage of the blood supply to a certain part of the brain, usually because of a clot. When it hits the part of the brain governing respiration the result often is fatal.

Little Headway

Medical science up to now has been able to achieve little toward undoing the damage caused by stroke and the outlook for curative treatment has been a dismal one, the sponsors of the new operation said.

But a large percentage of the clots occur in arteries in the neck leading to the brain, not to little arteries in the brain itself. And these trouble spots in the neck can be reached handily by surgery, they added.

Neck Operations

Results of 67 of these neck operations on 50 patients were reported to the American Heart association by a surgical team from Baylor university, Houston, Texas. The team was made up of Dr. E. Stanley Crawford, who reported the results, Dr. Michael E. De Bakey, Dr. Donald A. Cooley and Dr. George C. Morris, Jr.

Studies showed the clots in these 50 cases to be located in blood vessels of the neck or upper torso. The treatment was to remove the blocking material surgically.

Normal circulation was restored to a majority of the patients. Dr. Crawford said, with the return of the lost functioning.

"It is felt," Dr. Crawford added, "that a curative form of treatment now is available for many people with strokes."

Lucey Will File Complaint Against Firm

Says Allen-Bradley Violated Law With Newspaper Ad

Madison — (AP) — Patrick J. Lucey, chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party, said Thursday he will file a complaint with the Dane County district attorney charging the Allen-Bradley company of Milwaukee with violation of the state corrupt practices act.

Lucey said the violation involves payment by the firm for full-page newspaper advertisements defending the pamphlets of Joseph Kamp of Westport, Conn., and an attack on Sen. William Proxmire.

In buying the advertisements, Lucey said, the firm violated the law which prohibits corporations from making expenditures in behalf of, or against, political parties or candidates.

Company Answers

Harvey W. Peters, counsel for Allen-Bradley, said he asked the attorney general's office for an opinion on the advertisements. He said that so far as the company is concerned it did not engage in political activity of any kind. Peters also said the firm does not consider the advertisement directed toward the election of, or the defeat of, any candidate.

The Allen-Bradley advertisement mentioned Proxmire and asked if there was any connection between his voting record and the support he has received from labor.

NAM President Asks Labor Law

Says Legislation Should be First Before Congress

Milwaukee — (AP) — Milton C. Lightner, the president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said Thursday the next congress should consider new labor legislation as its first order of business.

Lightner, a director of 300 state businessmen attending a national affairs meeting of the NAM, said the labor unions have emerged as abusive giants on the political scene.

The senate committee headed by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., Lightner said, has shown the urgent need for labor law reform.

"President Eisenhower, too, has demanded that the public be protected against practices that make a mockery of the collective bargaining relationship and endanger innocent third parties," Lightner said.

Lightner, who is chairman of the board of Singer Manufacturing company, said unions are carrying on political education programs and campaigns supported by union dues.

Defense Chief Meets With Pakistan Head

Karachi, Pakistan — (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary McElroy met for more than an hour today with the Pakistan's martial law administrator, Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan.

McElroy, who arrived yesterday on a 5-day tour, said the question of increasing U.S. military aid to Pakistan will be considered.

Khan and President Iskander Mirza took over direct administration of the Pakistan government nearly two weeks ago after Mirza dissolved parliament. The country is under martial law.

Truman Voices Backing Of Supreme Court's Integration Decision

Tells Audience Ike Fails to Provide Needed Leadership

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

New York — (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman braved the wrath of southern Democrats today by making it abundantly clear the Supreme court's school integration decision has his full backing.

With an eye to the 1960 presidential election as well as to next month's congressional contests, he told a rousing party rally in Boston last night the decision is not only the law but "it is morally right."

The address, in which he accused President Eisenhower of dodging his "moral responsibility" to support the court, wound up the scrappy Missouriian's 1958 campaign except for a final speech at St. Louis Nov. 1.

By failure to give "proper leadership" at the "proper time" over the last four years, Truman said, the wave of violence by "crackpots and extremists."

"The president," Truman said to a cheering crowd, "has never told the nation that he believed the Supreme court's decision was morally right."

Avoids Statement

"He has carefully avoided stating his views on that subject."

As his own views, Truman said, "God did not create a human family made up of segregated, dissociated, mutually independent members."

He argued that Eisenhower should have done more than "deplore" the "83 instances of bombings of schools, homes and religious institutions traceable to the desegregation conflict."

The president, he added, "has a moral responsibility in this matter" and "must exercise active, affirmative leadership."

He credited Eisenhower with leadership in pushing through a 4-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program and said that "if he had fought as hard for civil rights, we would have a lot less trouble today."

No Criticism

Despite his own stout advocacy of firmness on the civil rights issue, Truman pointedly refused to go along with Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler's criticism of southern Democrats.

The former president heartily endorsed an expected meeting today of Vice President Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller, GOP candidate for New York governor.

"Republicans ought to get together," said Truman, "they see down the same alley."

Nixon Remark

Truman was told by reporters that Nixon had referred to him as "a gallant warrior" because of his determined political campaigning this year at the age of 74.

"I appreciate that," Truman responded. "I don't understand it, but when a fellow gets religion and reforms, it's proper to accept him at his face value."

Truman said he has finished his campaigning for all practical purposes, with nothing more on tap than attendance at the traditional Democratic campaign windup in St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 1.

He declined to make any predictions as to the outcome of specific races, but said that "the feeling of the country is for the Democrats."

Honey queens were in abundance Thursday night at the state beekeepers' dinner and the crowning of one of the eight as state honey queen was climax of the organization's 2-day convention at the Conway hotel.

Evelyn Gottschalk, Fort Atkinson, Jefferson county queen, won the state title and was crowned by Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles, dinner speaker. Miss Gottschalk succeeds Barbara Bird, Beaver Dam.

Runners-up in the contest were Deanna Howell, Janesville, Rock county queen, second, and Louise Severson, Green Bay, Brown county queen, third. The other queens, representing Calumet, Waupaca, Waushara, Sauk and Douglas counties, were Audrey Draheim, Brillion; Beverly Zirbel, Royalton; Judy Schwertsinske, Pine River; Jane Hoegel, Baraboo; and Lila Ahola, Poplar.

Beekeepers Reelect All Officers

Henry Piechowski, Redgranite, was reelected president of the Wisconsin Beekeepers' association Thursday.

Other officers reelected were Joseph Deiser, Superior, first vice president; Norman Harper, Belleville, second vice president; Milton Lyons, Pardeeville, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Louise Brueggeman, Menomonee Falls, recording secretary.

Mrs. Otto Koepsell, Mayville, was elected president of the auxiliary. She replaces Mrs. Piechowski.

Mrs. Melvin Berholz, Oshkosh, was elected vice president. Mrs. Felix Elsinger, Stevens Point, was reelected secretary. Mrs. Felix Elsinger, Stevens Point, was reelected secretary.

The association chose Chipewa Falls for next year's convention.

Housing Delegate Praises Meeting

Kaukauna Woman Says Talks in Washington Perfectly Wonderful

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — "Perfectly wonderful" was the way Mrs. Lawrence Van Zummeren, Kaukauna, described the Women's Conference on Housing held by the National Association of Home Builders and the United Industry Committee for Housing.

Mrs. Van Zummeren, whose husband is a laboratory technician at the new Appleton hospital, was one of 100 women delegates chosen by the association for the trip to Washington because of her short essay written on desirable points in construction of homes.

The delegates, who were divided into round-table groups of ten, heard industry representatives describe how their products were best used in construction of homes.

Unbiased Reports
"These discussions crystallized our thinking and I believe we were able to give unbiased reports," Mrs. Van Zummeren said. Preferences noted by the women, incidentally, will be recorded and used as a guide to home builders and allied industries.

For instance, the group to which Mrs. Van Zummeren belonged preferred dry-wall plaster in place of the usual wet-wall paper.

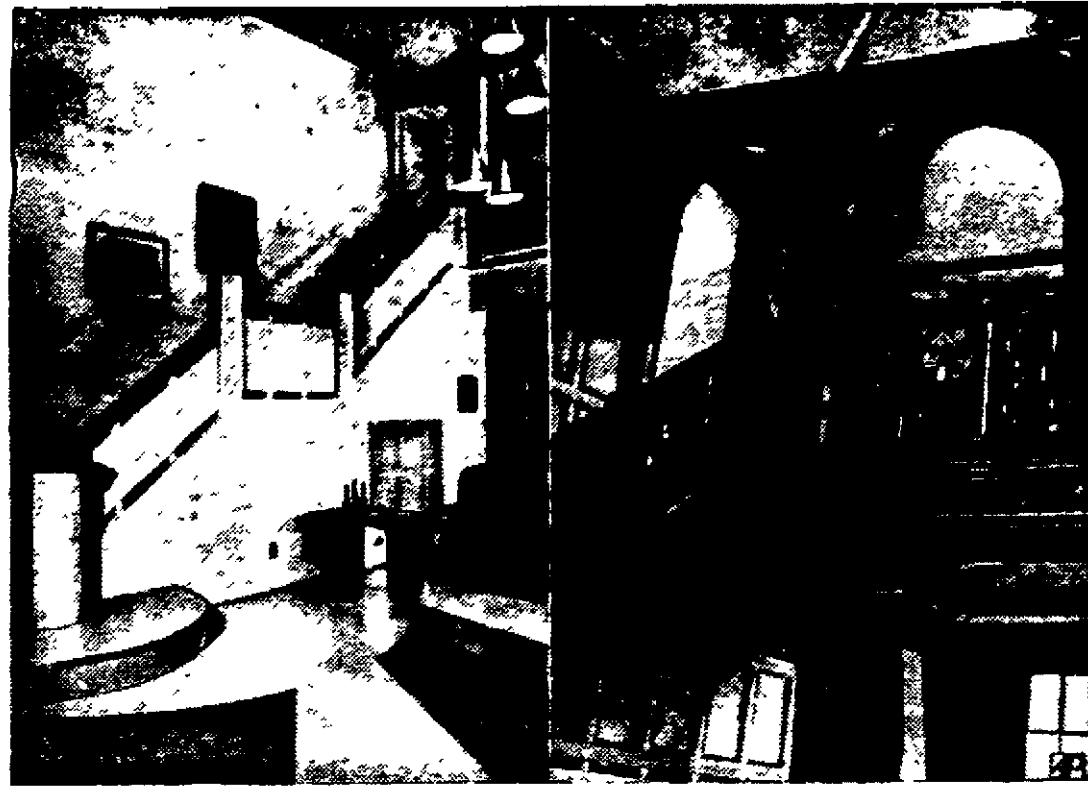

Another preference noted concerned "built-in" appliances. Most of the women, Mrs. Van Zummeren said, wanted the space for built-in ovens, refrigerators, TV sets, etc., but didn't want to have to purchase the appliances already installed when they bought a house. They would rather add them gradually, instead of having to pay for them all at once.

Some of the delegates apparently found it hard to describe an "ideal home" suited to their pocketbooks, rather than what they wanted but would never be able to finance.

Social Whirl
Although the days were packed with conferences, the delegates were "royally entertained" by their hosts.

Monday evening they were entertained at a reception for themselves and the press Tuesday evening they saw "Romanoff and Juliet" at the National theater with Peter Ustinov starring. Wednesday evening they attended a formal dinner. Thursday morning they made a tour of the White House and visited the Russian embassy in the afternoon.

On her way home, Mrs. Van Zummeren visited with her brother, the Very Rev. Justine E. Diny, O. Pream, headmaster at Archmere academy, a Norbertine prep school for boys at Wilmington, Del.

An Old Entrance Hall with an ornate, carved staircase looked like this after it was converted into a family room. The staircase, shown at the right as it appeared before, was covered with textured plywood paneling. The old wooden floor was covered with rubber tiles in a sunburst, radiating pattern.

The Investor

Tells Broker to Invest for Him, Complains When He Seems to Lose

BY WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I started investing my savings in the stock market about five years ago. I hoped to protect myself against inflation. My job as a salesman takes me out of town most of the time, so my brokerage account was made discretionary. This enabled my broker to handle my investments to his best judgment.

Doyle

For a few years, my investments made money. There was always quite some trading in my account. This resulted in some heavy commissions. But I felt the broker was entitled to that.

Since July, 1957, things have gone all wrong. Every time the market was headed down, the broker would make big purchases for my account—usually on margin. As a result, I paid big interest charges. When the market went up, my account would show a big short position. Now more than one-third of my hard-earned savings are gone. I don't understand how this could happen. My broker is with a big, well-known firm. I complained to his boss but was told not to worry; that I stay with my broker I'll soon be in clover; that I would have done worse on my own. What can I do?

Must Be Rough
A. You don't leave me any choice. I have to be rough on you. That's the only way to drive home the point that you put yourself in your present predicament.

Who signed the agreement making your account discretionary? You did. Who allowed the broker to make all kinds of trades? You did. Who liked the idea of having a trading account when it was profitable? You did. That kind of action doesn't sound like a person who just wants to "protect himself against inflation." It marks you as someone who was trying to get rich in a hurry. It was against this. She wanted more positive proof of its merits. I say it is a worthy addition to our holdings, in view of our long-term aims. Do you face the risk of being you agree?

A. Yes. Reichhold fits nicely into a growth stock portfolio. Tell your frau it's almost impossible to get "positive proof" of any growth situation. When you buy stocks in hopes of exceptional growth, you almost always take on an added risk.

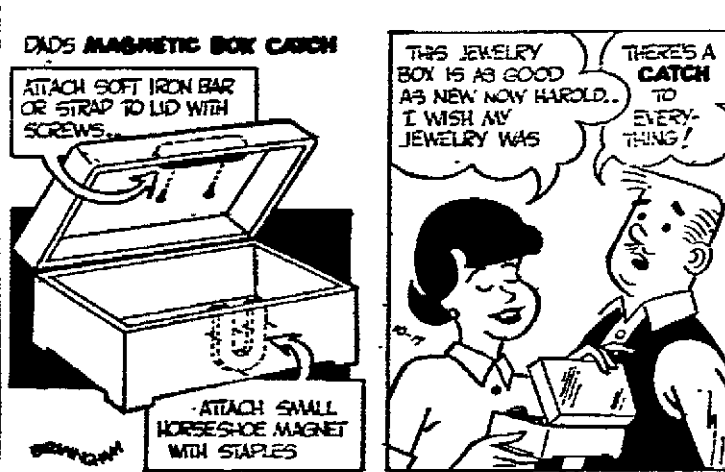

Reichhold's stock is considered to be a good medium priced selection in the expanding chemical field. The company, with a widely diversified range of products, apparently has a sound base for lifting its earnings in the years ahead.

People your age are wise to aim for growth, as long as you don't try too hard and end up as wild speculators. And you would be smart to include sound, defensive securities in your holdings. Add some that have a record of resisting general market declines. Then you won't feel so Krash, Judy Stritzel, Sally bad when your growth stocks Eick, Randal Jourdan and fall out of bed, as they are bound to do every so often.

Entrance Hall Changed Into Family Room

Unightly Staircase Given Neat, Modern Look With Plywood

BY JOHN O. E. WALLACE
AP Newsfeature

Transforming an ugly duckling entrance hall into a modern family room may be easier and less expensive than you think.

One such project was undertaken in old brownstone home with an ornate dust-catching staircase.

The job was completed without ripping out any structural parts of the home.

The key to the relatively inexpensive conversion was the so-called camouflage technique. The unsightly old staircase was given a smart, modern look by the simple expedient of encasing it in textured plywood paneling. The paneling, then was painted in a beige color with a red trim.

Plywood Covered
An ornate doorway was similarly covered with plywood. The designers point out that their technic in using plywood paneling in this way can also be adopted by the home craftsman in a variety of projects.

An important part of the ugly duckling - to - glamour transformation was achieved in the flooring. The old, worn wooden flooring was covered with rubber tiles.

Rubber tiles were chosen for the heavy - traffic family room, the designers say, because of its resiliency and its noise - muffling, long - wearing characteristics.

The old floor was prepared for the new covering first by thoroughly removing all dirt, wax and old paint. Loose boards were repaired, all protruding nails were countersunk with a nail punch—and cracks and holes were filled with patching material.

Felt Base
Uneven or rough spots were either planed or sanded. A felt base then went on top of the old flooring and the tiles were set in place on the felt with adhesive.

A radiating tile pattern was chosen as a decorative strategy to give the dimensions of the room an effect of extra spaciousness. In this job, the newest post of the staircase was used as the focal point for a sun-burst pattern in beige, soft red and gunmetal. Textured grass cloth in an antique gold tone was selected for the wall covering which repeated the gold tone of the tile flooring, the curtains and the drop lights.

Speeder Pays Fine

Seymour — Mary Jane Williams, 33, 107 E. Harding avenue, Appleton, appeared before Justice Richard Seidl on October 22 for a speeding arrest on South Main street on October 19 by Officer Ben Jankowski. A guilty plea was made and ten dollars and costs was paid.

Soap, Water Make Good Wall Cleaner

Walls of brick or glazed tile may be cleaned by the homeowner with a soap and water solution. Stubborn discolorations can often be removed by gentle scrubbing with a household scouring powder. Be sure to select a cleaner which will not erode or etch the glaze, however.

Efflorescence, a white powdery substance, sometimes develops on masonry walls. It frequently can be removed by scrubbing with water and a stiff brush. If this does not work, a solution of hydrochloric acid, not stronger than one part acid to nine parts water, should be used. It is important to rinse the wall thoroughly, both before and after acid washing.

If the efflorescence shows green, a solution of commercial caustic soda, composed of one part soda to 10 parts water, should be used.

In the event that mortar joints between bricks soften, it may be necessary to fill them with cement mortar. Cut out all loose mortar to a depth of at least one-half inch, clean cavity, refill with appropriate mortar and finally tool to a smooth, compact, concave surface. Small mortar cracks can be waterproofed inexpensively with a two-coat application of cement sand grout.

Any extensive filling of joints of old brickwork with new mortar is a job for a contractor skilled in such work. Similarly, a builder should be consulted if there is difficulty with flashing, a metal or bituminous material placed in wall joints to divert moisture.

Better Late Than Never, Man Believes

Denver — (U) — Fred Parker of Salt Lake City apparently is a man who believes in the old adage of better late than never.

Parker obtained a divorce in 1907. He wrote for a copy of the divorce decree in 1940. Officials advised Parker, then residing in Oakland, Calif., he could have the copy for $1.

Denver County Judge David Brofman heard from Parker yesterday — 18 years later. Parker enclosed the dollar. There's one hitch. Since 1940 the fee has increased to $1.50.

Clay Tile Simple Cover

Clay tile is one of the simplest and easiest of all floor coverings to maintain, for it does not require waxing, polishing or refinishing. Wash it down with warm water and any good, soapless detergent—then rinse and wipe clean with an old turkish towel. To clean the joints between tiles, use a fiber brush and a mild household scouring powder.

Avoid the use of abrasive powders or cleansers on wall tile in order to keep from scratching the waterproof, glass-like surface of clay tiles.

Tough Ike Winning Over Amiable Ike

Political Pros Welcome Turn In President's Stronger Talks

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — One of the most spirited of all the contests going on in the climax of the congressional campaign is a series of brisk battles between Dwight D. Eisenhower and Dwight D. Eisenhower. The "tougher" Eisenhower is progressively winning over the amiable Eisenhower—with all encouragement from the Republican professionals.

The president has first de- plored and then welcomed foreign policy fighting in the campaign. He first assented to the use in a Republican manifesto of the cry of "socialism" against the Democrats. And though he backslid momentarily to repudiate that cry, he has now gone much farther to charge the Democratic party with being dominated by "political radicals." The pros at the GOP national committee did not prepare, though they happily welcomed, this presidential epithet against a party that on some critical issues has helped him in congress more than his own. It was written by White House ghosts who are supposed to be "modern" Republicans innocent of the combative partisanship of the "regular" Republicans which the president himself usually deprecates.

Indeed, Mr. Eisenhower, as recently as Oct. 15, had tut-tutted this kind of language, with the chiding observation: "Politicians do love to make things very positive."

Happy Relief
The fact that within less than a week he himself was making things even more "positive" is still a source of happy relief to the pros. They knew what was supposed to be in the California speech.

Not merely Vice President Richard M. Nixon but also Meade Alcorn, the Republican national chairman, had been anxiously at work since early September to "toughen the president up." Mr. Alcorn began going to the White House long ago to say that unless the president went to work in urgent partisanship the rest of the Republicans would be able to stir neither the voters nor the "fat cats"—the campaign cash contributors.

These strong and continuous representations a little enervated and lost headway. But Alcorn successes began to predominate over Alcorn failures after Sherman Adams, the former presidential assistant, left the White House for good. Mr. Adams, until his forced resignation because of acceptance of gifts, had held Mr. Alcorn at arms' length from the president.

Influence Departs
But once the GOP chairman began to see "the boss" himself, and after all the lingering Adams influence had departed from the White House, the president did, indeed, begin to "toughen up"—most of the time. Alcorn then on his own account began to take an exceptionally "tough" line. This reached its pitch in his charge of Oct. 19 that the Democrats were "the party of the left-wingers and the appeasers."

This was almost exactly the tone of the president's California speech of two days later, in which the dominant wing of the Democrats be-

It's Your Landscape

Want Birds? Then Create a Yard That Satisfies Them

BY GEORGE E. CREED

If you like birds the surest way to lure them to your yard is to create conditions that will satisfy their needs. The chief attraction, of course, is food. But they have other requirements, too, such as water, nesting places and hardier ones that stay on through the winter months also appreciate trees that afford them some protection.

By careful selection of plant materials you can provide the birds with a variety of berries, seeds and fruit. These will not be ample to satisfy their voracious appetites the year round but a good planting will establish your yard as a place to look for food and you can keep the birds coming back by maintaining a well-stocked feeding station. Fortunately, some of the finest ornamental shrubs and trees produce bird-attracting fruits, so that, besides being excellent lures, they can also be combined to form a part of your landscape that will have much to offer in the way of beauty throughout the year.

Such a combination of the planting is shown on the sketch and plan. It is composed of two types of materials: 1. Fruit bearing shrubs and trees to attract and feed the birds. 2. Evergreens for winter cover, nesting places and general interest. In addition to the planting a small, decorative pool is shown. This would provide a source of water for the birds. To complete the plan a conveniently located bird feeder is indicated. Though this planting is designed for a corner, the same materials could well be used in other arrangements more suited to a particular yard.

came "political radicals." Oddly, by that time, Mr. Alcorn and President Eisenhower himself were very nearly outdoing Vice President Nixon in their attacks on the Democrats.

And there is, ironically, sound information from Republican quarters that neither the president nor the party chairman would have gone so far had Mr. Adams, a special Democratic target, remained in the White House. (Copyright, 1958)

Base for Tiling

When tile is installed on a kitchen drainboard or work counter, the plywood base should be protected with a reliable sealer. If the surface to receive the tile is steel, it should be treated with a primer to prevent rust. Whatever the base, tile installed on kitchen counters should be grouted with the best material available

Select Patio Furniture With Eye to Harmony

Don't Clutter, Try to Buy With Theme in Mind

BY VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

Some of the fun in outdoor living is the setting we provide for our patio enjoyment. A few colorful cushions, rustic and rugged furniture, lounges and hammocks can contribute to our comfort.

Some of us manage to clutter up the outdoors, however, by snatching up a willy-nilly assortment of furniture at summer sales. While the summer sale offers great possibilities for adding to patio, terrace or backyard living, we should give some thought to our selections. It's just as important to keep outdoor furniture compatible as it is to keep indoor furniture in harmony.

Ask yourself these questions, for instance, when buying your next chaise or table:

(1) Will it stack easily for winter storage?
(2) Can it be moved indoors, perhaps on the porch?
(3) Do we have room in the attic, basement or barn for items that will not stack?

These considerations are just as important as the type of furniture and the colors you use because if the furniture must be left out to get water logged, you've made a poor investment.

One Theme

It's a good idea to stick to a theme in your outdoor setting. Add wood to wood, metal to metal when possible or use them in combination when they are compatible.

Measure areas where you plan to put tables. If the dining area is out in the sun, a big white metal table with parasol may be better than a redwood sawbuck table.

If there are small children in the family, though, wood is a good investment because it can be whitened and hammered, smeared with paint, and may even be enhanced in a rustic sense as a result. Wood may be rained on, too, without too much damage.

Keeping in mind storage possibilities, chairs that stack easily are better bets perhaps than those that take a good deal of space. Newer metal tables have that advantage also. Small, end-table type tables have round tray-like tops, with a hole in the center for ice, punch bowls and what have you. These revolving tops slip on neat hold-away chrome tripod stands.

Electronics Creating Miracles for the Home

Many 'Marvels' Either on Market or Ready to be Put on Sale Very Soon

The science of electronics is creating miracles for the American home of today. But wait until you get a look at the electronic marvels for the home of tomorrow!

Washing machines without water—dirt is removed by ultrasonic energy. A vacuum cleaner with a "brain"—it does its own work without human direction.

A luminescent wall—turn it on and the room is lighted. A radiant heat canopy—pull it out from a bedroom wall and sleep comfortably, without covers, even in cold weather. A television set no deeper than the thickness of a heavy thumb—hang it on the wall like a framed painting.

Sound fantastic? Well, they're all realities and in various stages of development by the designers and inventors who seek to make a better way of life for all of us by harnessing electrons to the service of man.

Electronic Time Table
All of the electronic items mentioned here are either now on the market or expected to be on the market within the next five or 10 years.

Here's a time table on these items and some others being developed:

The vacuum cleaner with a "brain" has been successfully demonstrated but manufacturers have not yet set the date for putting it on the market.

Engineers are still knocking out "bugs" on wall television units, designed to serve as "babysitters" or to permit the home owner to see who is at the front door, already are available.

The ultrasonic energy washer and dryer actually could be manufactured today, but the cost is too high for the average consumer. They're trying to cut its cost.

The radiant heat canopy has Abolish the Conservation Commission?

In his proposal for the abolition of the conservation commission which is the policymaking arm of the conservation administration at Madison, Sen. Nelson, the Democratic gubernatorial aspirant, resembles the person who would throw out the baby with the bath water.

There is some legitimacy in the Nelson complaint that the commission, with meetings on one day a month, probably cannot maintain that intimate familiarity with program detail that is desirable, if not explicitly essential.

But whatever improvements in procedure as may be advisable surely do not require such radical action. The candidate here betrays a political motive that is as pressing as his zeal for administrative efficiency. He wants to get rid of somebody, primarily.

The conservation commission in its present form dates from a legislative enactment of 30 years ago. It was evolved by a group of private citizens who were esteemed leaders in the natural resources conservation movement of that time. Conservation organizations through the decades have resisted with energy and spirit whenever there has been a political attack on the system of the kind that Sen. Nelson makes today. We await their reactions to his proposal with a great deal of interest in view of that history.

Meanwhile — and we intend to say this as charitably as we can — Nelson has not thought through his proposition. If the commission needs to meet more often, it is a simple matter to change the laws. Nor are we especially impressed with his idea that “career men” in the department should rule its policy, manage its enormous resources and its giant budget, and handle the vast legislative authority delegated to it by the legislature. By career men he means civil servants, men who have no direct responsibility to any elected officer, governor or legislature.

This is in direct conflict with the whole idea of Wisconsin public administration, and also, strangely, in direct contradiction of other Nelson statements on how the state government should be organized. He has talked about “democratic controls,” through more direct legislative and gubernatorial channels of authority. Yet here he would sack a commission which is appointed by the governor and confirmed by the legislature, for limited terms, and turn the whole kit and caboodle over to men who hold their desks for life after they finish their civil service examinations and who could defy the governor and legislature at their pleasure.

Nikita Wants Russia to Sober Up

Give Nikita Khrushchev a king-size beaker and crown his bald pate with a grapevine wreath and you have a caricature of Bacchus, the god of wine. It takes no imagination at all to see him preside at the Orgia — or the Bacchanalia, as the licentious festivals were more commonly called. In fact, if half the stories one hears about his tipping are true, he could teach Bacchus himself some new tricks.

There’s a proverb that says: “When men grow virtuous in their old age, they are merely making a sacrifice to God out of the leavings of the devil.” Old Nikita isn’t going overboard about his own virtue. It isn’t on record that he is pledging abstinence for himself, but as dictator of the proletariat he has decreed temperance.

Drunkenness is a blot on Soviet society, he testifies from the depth of his own experience. It is anti-social, alien to Russia; it saps a man’s health, disfigures family life and damages society. So no establishment can sell more than one drink of hard liquor to a customer. If a man wants to make the rounds, that’s all right; he can sober up in between.

What’s poor Ivan to do? He has lots of money, with his whole family working, and almost no place to spend it except on food and drink. His congested living quarters don’t cost him much, and constant shortages put almost everything else beyond his reach.

As a clown, Nikita has made Ivan laugh, even while sober; but sober thought could be dangerous with its nightmares of secret police and mass murders. Nikita, the practical man, the cold-blooded dictator, the calculating liar, could learn that a sober Ivan won’t endure him forever.

Regulating the Regulators

There was widespread disgust when details of influence peddling in the Federal Communications commission were revealed last winter, and also when a congressional committee heard of the telephone calls made by Sherman Adams to other federal regulatory agencies on behalf of Bernard Goldfine. Part of the trouble is due to the quality of men involved; part of it comes from the status of the federal agencies themselves and their quasi-executive, legislative and judicial status.

There are at present several suggestions to remedy the latter fault. The Hoover commission has recommended that the judicial power of the agencies be completely taken away and given to a new administrative court. Under such an arrangement the agency then would act as prosecutor and could ethically receive or withstand suggestions and pressures from the groups involved. The court, like any court, would be made up of men with judicial experience who could not legally be pressured or given information not open to the public.

A special committee of the American Bar association, also recognizing the conflict of the various duties of the agencies particularly with their quasi-judicial roles, is working on a code of ethics which could be backed by congressional legislation for enforcement. There would be “minimum uniform provisions forbidding ex parte communications with any agency as to any pending quasi-judicial proceedings.” Other communications would have to be made public so that opposing parties would have an opportunity to hear and answer testimony and charges.

However, these plans fail to notice that the same men would be able to accept information on the one hand and not on the other. Part of the problem has been the doling out of patronage to good party supporters in the form of appointments to such agencies despite lack of training or other qualifications. Part of the trouble, too, is that the agencies may have overstepped the authorities originally granted to them, or that the needs have changed. The ICC, for instance, still has ridiculously strong power over the railroads although the bugaboo of railroad monopoly has long since vanished. And why should a handful of members of the FCC be the final authority to decide what local group may begin a radio or television station when the group may sell out the next week?

Obviously there is a need for many of the federal agencies to make decisions or to get information for which neither Congress nor the executive department has facilities. But when men of limited ability and dubious character act as prosecutor, judge and jury, there are bound to be abuses. As long as there are loopholes there will always be some people who are able to squeeze through.

Democracy Fails to Work in Pakistan

From The Wall Street Journal

Pakistan, a democratically-conceived nation, is now a military dictatorship, and in that bald fact are a couple of sobering reflections.

One of the numerous nations to achieve independence in the wake of World War II, Pakistan organized itself on the democratic example of the United States and the western world. But somehow democracy does not seem to have been working very well.

The president of the country, in his proclamation of martial law, put it this way: “For the last two years I have been watching with deepest anxiety the ruthless struggle for power, corruption, the shameful exploitation of our simple, honest, patriotic and industrious masses, the lack of decorum and the prostitution of Islam for political ends.” He said the “present action has been taken with utmost regret” but had become inevitable.

Well, is there, after all, something basically deficient in democracy, as the enemies of democracy constantly contend? We think the deficiency is not in this particular form of political organization, but in some illusions about it. One of the most prevalent of these is that a newly-independent country need only to desire democracy and, presto, it exists.

Actually the type of free society which “democracy” connotes is usually very slow in developing. It took Britain centuries to attain it, and when the United States was created it not only borrowed much from Britain but was also blessed with leaders and a populace steeped in freedom’s principles. That is not often the case with the new nations of today.

Unfortunately, the United States itself has sometimes seemed to share in this illusion that functioning democracies can always spring full-blown out of colonialism. Pakistan, for instance, has become one of this country’s important allies, and has been considered one of the firmest in the east, being a member both of the American-sponsored Baghdad pact and Southeast Asia Treaty organization.

Perhaps the alliance will continue firm, but the Pakistan the United States is allied with this morning is certainly not the Pakistan it has been relying on for the defense of democracy.

Business Barometer Points to Healthy U. S. Economic Picture

From the New York Herald Tribune

The last quarter of 1958 is a time of stock-taking for U. S. business. How does the barometer read? From several directions, signs are pointing toward a further increase in the healthy recovery already under way.

Here are some of the signs: For the first time in nearly two years, the Labor department’s employment study in 149 major cities showed the number reporting increased employment exceeded those reporting decreased employment.

Fifteen cities showed sufficient gain since July to be reclassified to a higher employment rate category.

Fathers Rate First in Eyes Of Boy Scouts

From The Wilmington, Del., Morning News

We wonder how the average father of a boy 14 to 16 years old grades himself on character, personal qualities, and on vocational and social skills. We hope he can honestly claim high marks — because boy scouts questioned in a survey made by the University of Michigan’s Social Research institute said that it was because their fathers possessed these traits in generous measure that they name said fathers as their No. 1 hero.

That’s a flattering tribute. There’s an old saying that no man is a hero to his own valet. We know the truth of the pronouncement that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house. Now we are told that in the eyes of boys 14 to 16, fathers are tops in all the main categories.

That’s good. It should encourage fathers who wonder just where they stand with their off-spring. But how long do they retain their high position after their sons reach 16? Just when — and why — do they lose it? The institute hasn’t finished its work.

only two — Binghamton, N. Y., and San Bernardino, Calif. — were reclassified downward. A survey of employer-hiring plans indicated a continuation of the more favorable trend.

Steel production last week rose to the highest level since last December, 67.3 per cent of capacity, this week will rise more.

Farm equipment sales will be considerably ahead of 1957, 10 leading makers predict. Reason: favorable 1958 crops, rising farm income, bigger farms. Six companies forecast bigger gains in 1959.

Chemical sales are rising. August sales of chemicals used for synthetic fibers showed a particularly big rise.

Industrial production has come back 9 per cent in four months, recouping more than half the decline in the preceding eight months.

Manufacturers’ new orders topped shipments in July. This signals a further step-up in production.

Department store sales are now running 3 per cent ahead of a year ago?

Excess capacity is still holding back plant expansion.

sion, a pivotal cog of the boom. It has dropped about one-fifth in the last year. But federal studies indicate a 2½ per cent increase in the fourth quarter, marking an end to the decline. Says the Chase Manhattan bank: “Most of today’s idle capacity is due to the recession rather than to a basic overbuilding. And the revival in demand could lead to renewed expansion next year, though at a lower rate than in 1955-57.”

All in all, it looks as if the fourth quarter is going to be a thumping good one. If it doesn’t reach the Himalayan peaks of 1957, at least it will look top-lofty by any previous measurement. And those measurements themselves were pretty high, and pretty healthy.

Jim McMurdo is a capital good boy, but it is a shame the Republicans nominated him for the Assembly in his district merely for the sake of filling up the ticket — only to be knocked down again.

Why don’t these Republicans nominate him for a good, fat county office? Oh, no, that’s not on their programme, but they’ll try to tickle him with empty honors.

Jim is too good a man to be put up merely for a target. Although he is a stalwart, physically and politically, he doesn’t stand a ghost of a show for election.

Who Will Lead Dems If Party Wins Nov. 4?

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — There are Democratic politicians who are so cheerful about the election outlook that they are already speculating about the effect of a Democratic sweep on the hierarchy of their own party.

Specifically, who would be the big boss in such an event. Sen. Proxmire, the patriarch of the upper echelons after one year in Washington, or Sen. Nelson, who would be the governor-elect under those delicious circumstances?

It is giving away no secrets to suggest the strong possibility that Nelson in very short order would become the No. 1 Democrat of this state, not only because of the logistics of politics, but because of the personality of the two men.

Proxmire is respected, but not widely loved. He represents to the average working, office-hungry, patronage-seeking Democrat the best chance of his party in a lifetime. He is the symbol, the personification of a fact that Democrats not long ago found it very difficult to believe after nearly half a century of frustration — that Democrats can win in Wisconsin. He has earned a position of honor. He holds the key to general party victory. But he is not widely liked by his fellow partisans.

THE CONTRAST

Nelson probably has more enthusiastic and loyal friends than any major nominee of his party in the last two decades, some of them who will find it hard to follow their normal predilections and vote their traditional Republican ticket on his account. This is not to say that Nelson will equal Proxmire’s votes, even if both of them win their elections. It is to suggest the contrast in their personal relationships within the party.

Nelson is gregarious. Proxmire is a “loner,” as politicians put it. Nelson has a pragmatic, tolerant view of life and politics. Proxmire tends to be sanctimonious, as even some of his friends complain. Nelson understands some of the exigencies of politics and goes out of his way to avoid unfair challenges and descriptions. Proxmire would have the world believe that the congressman who refuses a sample of another state’s industrial products is more virtuous than that neighbor who chooses not to insult a colleague. As even the Democrats are saying, the senator will turn down all gifts except campaign contributions. They are not tainted.

THE OFFICES

But more important in determining the leadership of the party if it gets a vote of confidence for its principal aspirants next month is the nature and the power of the senatorial and gubernatorial offices.

The senatorship is a high office and an important one, but it is of less importance and power in practical home-state political affairs.

The senator votes, and gets his name in the papers, and makes speeches in the stately chambers of the distant capitol.

But the governor is the head of the whole state government. He makes appointments, from the courts to the sheriff’s office. He guides the legislature and is in constant communication and association with his party organization. He is far more likely to lead a national convention delegation than is a senator. He is the top official in popular recognition within the state.

A governor, moreover, is a natural rival of a senator in the planning of his career. The senator hopes to be re-elected indefinitely. A governor knows he cannot. Two or three terms and he looks to new pastures. The logical extension of a governor’s career is a place in the senate. It will be interesting, indeed, to watch the unfolding of the hierarchical arrangements among the Democrats — if the people are as kind to them as they appear so confidently to expect on Nov. 4.

Gen. Persons Good Choice As Ike’s Aide

From The Indianapolis News

Capable continuity, so necessary in handling the vast details of the white house office, is assured with the appointment of Maj. Gen. Wilton Persons to succeed Sherman Adams as chief assistant to the president.

In his tenure as second in command in the executive office, Gen. Persons already had established himself as one of the most effective as well as popular members of the white house team.

His assignment had been liaison with congress, a job he performed so well that he earned the respect and friendship of leaders of both parties on Capitol hill.

Now he moves up as the right hand man of President Eisenhower, who needs — as any president has come to need — all the help he can get and all the relief from detail work that can be given, so that he can devote his energies to top direction of the nation’s affairs.

Well qualified and long trusted by the president, Gen. Persons is fitted both by personality and experience for his new responsibilities.

Indonesia Asks U. S. to Replace Dutch Vessels

Says Country Needs More Ships for Inter-Island Trade

Seattle — (P) — Indonesia is urging the United States to fill the need for ships to replace Dutch vessels which formerly served in Indonesia's vital inter-island trade.

Achmad Ali, head of the Indonesian delegation at preliminary sessions of the Colombo plan economic conference here, disclosed the bid. U.S. officials acknowledged approaches from Indonesia but said they have received no formal request for ships.

Ali disclosed that only 22 per cent of Indonesia's shipping requirements have been filled from world sources thus far.

When Indonesia took over approximately one billion dollars worth of Dutch property last December the vessels were used to maintain links between Java and the outside islands. However, under pressure from Lloyds, the London insurance firm, the Indonesian government turned back the Dutch fleet of 100 ships to their owners. The Dutch fleet totaled 195,000 tons.

Filling Gap Ali said that the World War II reparations from Japan and a loan from the Soviet Union are both helping to fill the gap by providing new inter-island vessels. Some other vessels are being purchased in Europe from both communist bloc and free world countries.

"We have approached the United States continuously for ships," Ali said. "I hope Washington will help us."

U.S. economic authorities were unable to predict what kind of response the Indonesian bid will receive. American policy has been thawing toward Jakarta in recent months since the rebellion of dissident army officers failed.

All said that a 2 million dollar combination cargo and passenger vessel built in Finland with U.S. funds has been turned over to Indonesia by the American government.

Tunisian Leader Repeats Offer For Mediation

Tunis, Tunisia — (P) — President Habib Bourguiba today repeated his offer to mediate a settlement of the 4-year-old Algerian rebellion.

In a radio address less than 24 hours after France's Premier Charles de Gaulle had invited Algerian representatives to come to France to consider a cease-fire, Bourguiba said:

"We are always ready to participate in the accomplishment of peace in Algeria. It is a duty within the framework of North African solidarity."

De Gaulle, in his dramatic offer to meet with the rebels, had also envisaged the future likelihood that Algeria would enter into liaison with Tunisia and Morocco, both former French protectorates.

Bourguiba echoed De Gaulle's hope that the uselessness of further fighting would be recognized and that a compromise would result.

Bourguiba said he could not say whether De Gaulle's cease-fire offer would be enough. It was, he said, a question for the Algerian rebel government in Cairo to decide.

Asks Jury for Death Penalty

Memphis — (P) — Final arguments open today in the murder trial of a former bellhop who took the witness stand himself to ask the jury for a death sentence.

Edward L. Leonard's appeal for death rather than prison climaxed an hour and a half of rapid, total recall testimony in which he told the fascinated jurors how he killed two men.

A psychiatrist, called as a defense witness, testified that Leonard, 27, is a pre-psychotic who was subconsciously committing suicide when he killed. He agreed that Leonard is legally sane.

The clean-cut, smooth-haired defendant gave his own report on his mental condition during his testimony. Twice he emphasized:

Sewage Plant Problem Faced In '59 Budget

City Has Until 1961 To Meet Demands Of Health Board

Kaukauna — One of the major tasks facing the finance committee of the common council as it works out the 1959 budget for the city will be the question of secondary treatment at the sewage disposal plant.

In October, 1957, Kaukauna along with other municipalities in the Fox Cities was ordered by the state committee on water pollution to build additional sewage treatment facilities by Dec. 31, 1961.

The order was issued after the state found that Kaukauna operated a primary treatment plant, equipped for chemical treatment of sewage and industrial wastes. Since part of the system is combined with storm sewers, quantities of surface water sometimes cause an overload and untreated sewage is bypassed creating a public health hazard.

Meetings Held The city has spent almost $200,000 on storm sewers in the past three years in an attempt to solve some of the problem. Last year the city installed over 17,000 feet of storm sewer of various sizes but the 1958 program was not nearly as large as city fathers attempted to clear up the majority of the work in the 1957 project. Only $15,000 was appropriated in the 1958 budget for storm sewers.

For the past three months, the board of public works has been meeting with engineering firms from Wisconsin and surrounding states in an attempt to select a firm most advantageous to the city.

About 10 engineering firms have been heard relative to remodeling and other work necessary at the sewage disposal plant to enable the city to have secondary treatment. One engineering firm estimated cost of conditioning plant facilities, engineering, services and other costs to meet requirements of the state board of health at $208,000.

The finance committee in the budget will attempt to find whether money can be set aside for the building or whether the city will find it necessary to float another bond issue to carry out the project. The city has three years in which to meet the deadline but aldermen express hope the work can be completed ahead of schedule.

100 Volunteers Now Collecting For Boy Scouts

Kaukauna — The Boy Scout fund campaign swung into high gear this week as approximately 100 volunteers began a house to house canvass of the city while about 15 persons began soliciting business places, according to Neil J. McCarty, general chairman.

The drive will continue for the next two weeks as the steering committee plans to make every possible contact with donors. Ward captains were named earlier and they appointed persons to assist with the door-to-door drive.

The First ward will be handled by 22 volunteers while 31 are soliciting in the Second ward, 25 in the Third ward, 15 in the Fourth ward and 10 in the Fifth ward. Currently 11 workers have been appointed to handle business district solicitation although a few more are expected to be added. Special chairmen have been named to contact organizations and industries or other major contributors.

B. A. PFEFFERLE, PRESIDENT AND MANAGER
P. O. BOX 385, APPLETON, WISCONSIN

Mr. Glenn Arthur
Advertising Director
Appleton Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how our newspaper advertising is paying off. For the past 25 years we have been a consistent advertiser. In each of the past 10 years we have allocated more money for Appleton Post-Crescent advertising than each of the previous years, thus our sales have grown with the increase in our advertising budget.

In addition to progressive growth we have benefited from our association as an advertiser in the Post-Crescent. For instance:

1. For nine years Elm Tree Bread has won the First Consumer Preference Award in your Consumer Buying Habit Study conducted by the Medill School of Journalism.
2. The Appleton Post-Crescent's Planned Advertising Program for Elm Tree Bakery for 1957 won the Editor and Publisher Award for the Best Retail Promotion among newspapers with circulation less than 50,000.

We appreciate the special effort your advertising copy service manager, Mr. Will Olson, put into our advertising program. We refer to such assistance as advertising budget planning, copy, layout, artwork and production of effective spot color advertising.

Working and planning with the Post-Crescent has been profitable, and we are inclined to attribute much of our success to our advertising with your newspaper.

Very truly yours,

ELM TREE BAKING COMPANY

Gets Tremendous Demand For Bakery Products

Again in 1958 Elm Tree Baking Company increased its budget for Post-Crescent advertising, including a substantial allocation for spot color advertising. With the largest newspaper appropriation in its 79 year history, Elm Tree has made Post-Crescent advertising an effective and valuable form of pre-selling their brand image to the consumer. Over 500 grocers and super-markets feature Elm Tree Bread every day. The impact of color creates immediate demand that is registered in increased sales.

Elm Tree is the Post-Crescent's largest retail Spot Color Advertiser in Appleton. In the year 1958 Elm Tree will use over 2,000 inches of spot color advertising in the Post-Crescent.

Important Factors in Successful Advertising

Advertising, as a means of communication enabling the seller to tell consumer about his goods or services, must include careful and thoughtful PLANNING if it is to give maximum return for the dollar investment. Spasmodic, unplanned or inconsistent use of this tool by a business is wasteful and inefficient and frequently serves as a weak excuse to management that advertising isn't important or necessary.

As a service and help to you, the Post-Crescent offers you a NEW "Business Builder" in the form of an efficient ADVERTISING COPY SERVICE, to guide and assist you in the approach to your program of advertising. Dial 3-4411 . . . Ext. 40 and a special representative will call on you today.

Baker's Dozen

... reflects in the steady growth of Elm Tree

Whatever the origin of the phrase — "a baker's dozen" ... it has come to stand for generosity, the friendly desire to give more than was asked for ... otherwise, thirteen for twelve.

In all their relations with the consumers of Elm Tree Bakery products, Elm Tree believes thoroughly in the doctrine of "the baker's dozen". To be sure, the plus service is not always tangible, like the extra doughnut; but Elm Tree's wish to go further than is required in serving its customers is being demonstrated daily in many ways.

That is why your better grocers and Super-markets make sure you have the greatest choice, of the freshest Elm Tree Bakery products, every day ... to bring your family better living.

Elm Tree President's Semi-Annual Message Cites Spectacular Demand For Elm Tree Bakery Products ...

"We are happy to report for the first half of 1958 that our company enjoyed the greatest sales volume in its 79 year history. Sales have increased almost 25% over the same period of 1957, and are not far from double the same period of two years ago.

You will be interested in knowing that present sales projections indicate a continued growth into 1959 at approximately the same rate of the past 18 months.

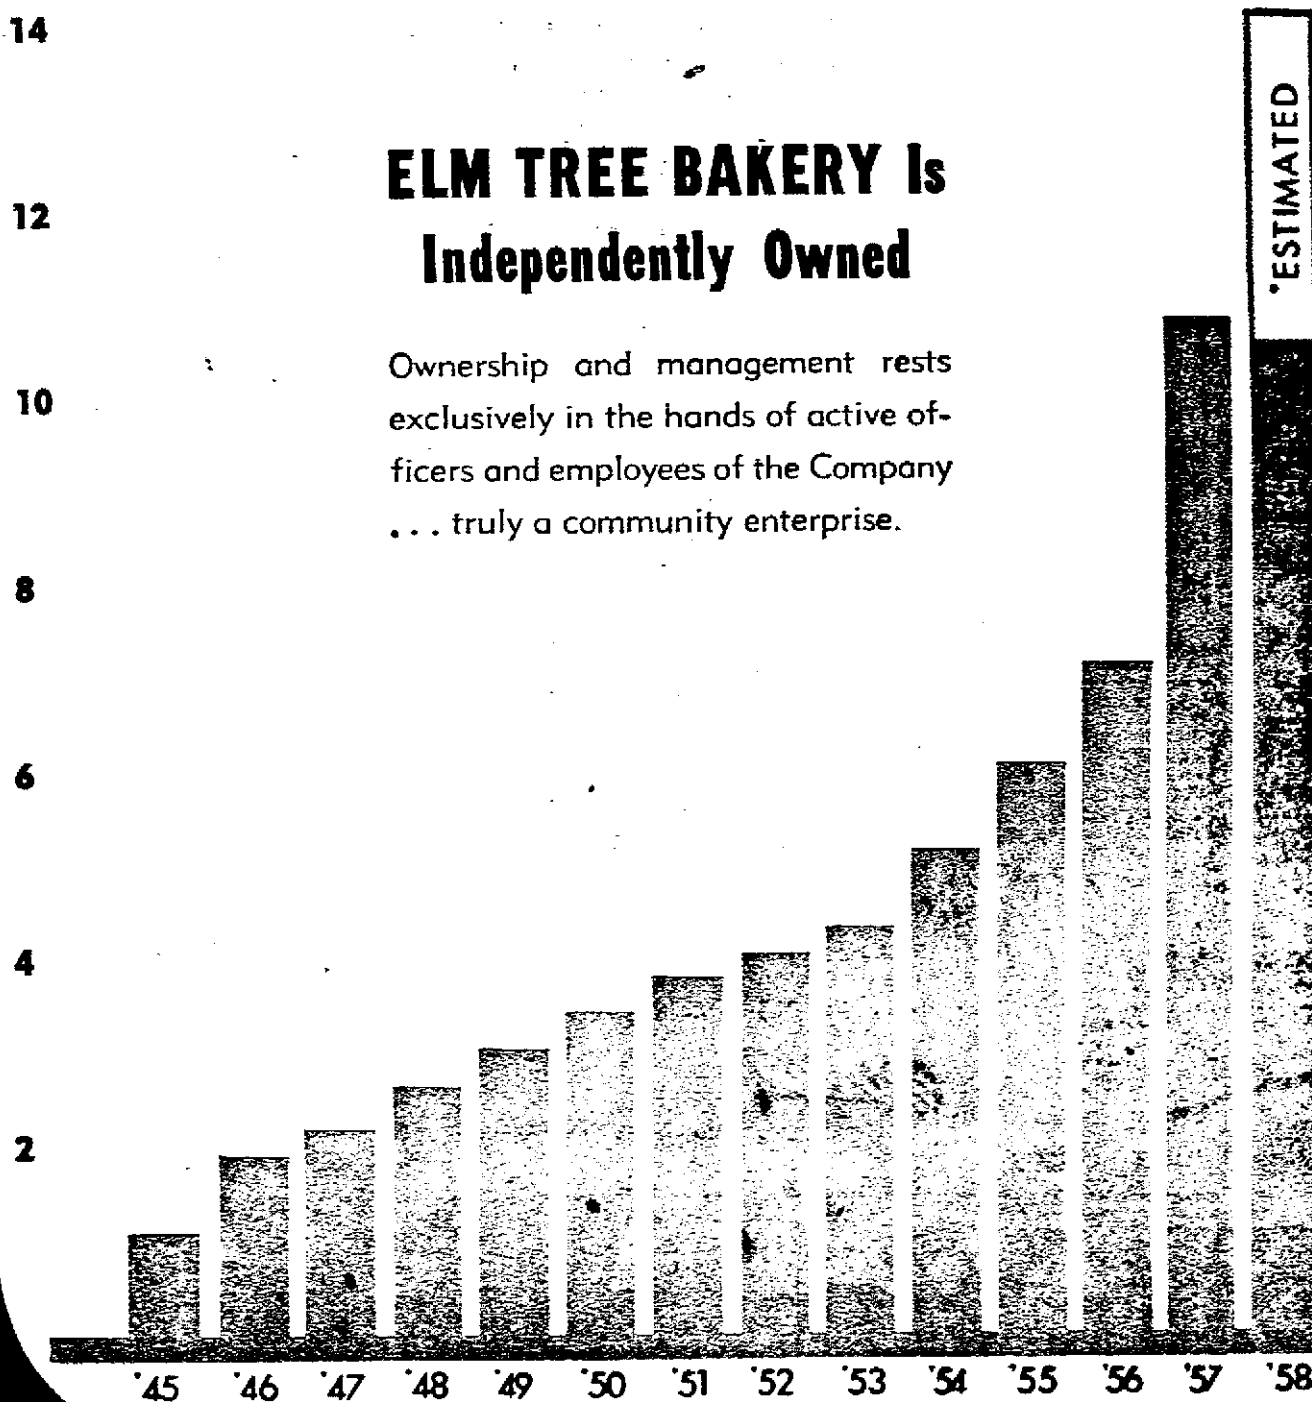

This offers untold opportunities to all our employees for advancement. ....

Steinle Utilizes 'Traditional GOP' As Campaign Tone

BY JOHN WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — An old-time campaigner with a commanding presence and old-time oratorical style is delivering the old time gospel to Wisconsin Republicans as the party nominee for United States senator.

Retired Justice Roland J. Steinle, Milwaukee, permits no one to doubt, among those who gather to hear him in campaign rallies, that he is a regular Republican of the line that has won elections in Wisconsin over a long period of years and that he eschews the "modern" label and the other hyphenations that have become established since he served his apprenticeship in the party 40 years ago.

His keynote is "traditional Republicanism" coupled with hard-hitting challenges of the main elements in the record of Sen. William Proxmire, the short term incumbent who is the best known exemplar of the "liberal" philosophy in Wisconsin politics.

The Steinle - Republican problem, as he and his party leaders see it, is to get out the majority of Republican voters that exist in Wisconsin but that sometimes has failed to be counted — as in the special elections lost to the Democrats

This is the fourth in a series of articles describing candidates for the principal offices in the Nov. 4 election. The articles, based upon long observation of the Wisconsin political scene and its principal figures, covers the contestants' backgrounds, outlook, methods and personalities. The author has traveled with major candidates during their current campaign tours.

and Proxmire a year ago when a successor to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was chosen.

Traditional Doctrine

Steinle proposes to do it, he has shown in dozens of speeches during the last four months, by an emphasis upon traditional party doctrine — balanced budgets, conservative taxation, opposition to "big labor", a government dedicated to serve all economic and social interests, and a vigorous resistance to all suggestions for socialization.

He has tended to pound hard on the issue of communism and subversion, which has reminded some listeners of the main theme of the man who once held the seat to which he aspires, the late Joe McCarthy.

Like other men trained in the oratorical school of earlier years, his forensic style is elaborate — sometimes extended also. He has been told by his campaign advisors that audiences today like relatively brief speeches, and so when he gets up to speak today it is with a good deal of self-conscious attention to his watch and sometimes with a good-natured wisecrack about his loquacity.

Steinle shows little tendency to attach himself to the reputation or the popularity of President Eisenhower, and in fact, seldom mentions the national administration or the president.

An exception is his flat support of the administration's policy in dealing with communism in the world, as in the Chinese off-shore islands crisis. While other leading representatives who are in his debt and under his control. "Proxmire is just another link in the chain for a Reutherized America, and I pledge that if I am sent to Washington, I won't kow-tow to the labor barons and I won't catch pneumonia every time they sneeze", he declares in a typical speech. The purpose of the CIO leadership is to socialize the nation, Steinle asserts, adding that Sen. Proxmire in a year in Washington has earned the reputation of being the most profligate spender in American legislative history.

'Wild Spending Spree'

The Republican candidate denounces the 85th congress, under Democratic control, for what he calls "the wildest spending spree since the days of the New Deal", and laments "Wisconsin's shame that 'Billion Buck Bill' Proxmire was in the forefront of this headlong gallop toward inflation and ultimate financial ruin."

With equal scorn, he has assailed Proxmire's votes to aid communist countries while offering amendments to the mutual security bill which would have cut off aid to countries friendly to the United States.

"Had his amendments to the mutual security bill passed, we would undoubtedly have had to give up missile bases in the Dominican Republic, our naval base in Cuba, and an air base in Saudi Arabia, along with the possibility of having to sacrifice our present advantages with respect to Arabian oil," he complains.

But the candidate's favorite target is the alliance between the CIO leadership and the Democratic party, which has become more pronounced, candid and visible in recent years.

Exploits Boast

Steinle has heavily exploited an unguarded boast of a

CIO Wisconsin leader that he had invested $250,000 in Proxmire's career through his election a year ago.

Proxmire has steadily voted in favor of union leaders and against the rights of individual working men and women, Steinle charges, remarking he is himself a member of a family of "working people", and he worked at menial jobs to earn his preparatory and professional education as a youth in Milwaukee.

"If it is morally corrupt for men like Dave Beck and Jimmy Hoffa to pilfer the money of rank and file union members for their own gain, is it not even greater moral corruption for men like Walter Reuther and Emil Mazey and Charles Schultz to pilfer the political rights of rank and file union members for their own political gain?" he demands, referring to leading CIO personalities.

Michigan, which he describes as in the grip of CIO political control, ought to be a case study for Wisconsin voters on the evils of power held by any economic group, says the candidate.

"The dismal fact is that in the whole middle west, Michigan alone of the great industrial states went backward while the country moved forward in job opportunities and economic expansion." The domination of Michigan by the giant labor unions under their socialist-oriented leaders has discouraged "a climate in which industry could reasonably develop," declares Steinle.

Shoots at Inflation

Another favorite target of the Republican nominee is inflation, which imperils the economic welfare of every individual and family, and which is directly, plainly and inevitably resulting from enormous deficit spending by the national congress, as he explains it.

It has been a long time since the Republicans have of-

Committeemen Add $156,960 To '59 Budget

Includes $4,000 for Nurse; Total Up $6.16 on Tax Rate

The budget committee Thursday approved another $156,960 for 1959 spending, including $4,000 for a city nurse. Total spending, some of it in gross budget and some in net budget form, now totals $4,829,734.

The total is an increase of $695,717 over the same accounts in this year's budget and $708,981 over the amount predicted for spending from this year's accounts.

Thursday's additions to the approved 1959 budget compare to $149,353 in the same accounts this year and with $159,142 predicted for spending from these accounts.

The new difference between this year's and next year's budgets equals $6.16 on the tax rate. Presently, $1 on the rate produces about $112,770 in tax income.

Latest Approvals
Approved Thursday:
Health department, $25,880. Increase of $5,934 budgeted and of $7,490.58 predicted for spending. Surplus of $1,556.53.

City hall building and maintenance, $25,485. Increase of $545 budgeted and of $2,887.44 of $2,342.44. Assessor's office, $23,643. It also provides $4,000 for a part-time health commissioner, an increase of $1,400 over the surplus of $2,920.40.

Around Home

Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles sweetened the hearts of the state beekeepers and their wives Thursday night as their dinner speaker.

He brought a new honey recipe to them, one used for many years in the Knowles family.

It's a breakfast cocktail, designed to give vim, vigor and vitality to active people who can't take a heavy meal in the morning.

Two raw eggs are whipped in a double serving of orange juice and then a tablespoon or so of honey is added. This starts the day off right. Knowles reported.

Mail Overseas Christmas Gifts In November

Postmasters Tell Regulations for Packages, Cards

The period between Nov. 1 and Nov. 20 has been designated for the mailing of Christmas packages, cards and letters to overseas members of the armed forces, according to Fox Cities postmasters.

The term "armed forces overseas" means service personnel, members of their families and authorized United States civilian employed abroad who receive mail through an APO number.

Postmasters recommend checking at the post office as to size, weight limitations and best packing methods before sending Yuletide gifts. Boxes should have enough insulating material so they will be tightly packed to prevent rattling or breakage. Unless boxes are completely packed and tightly filled they are likely to be crushed.

Inside Slip
A slip listing the contents and the addresses should be enclosed in each package and for certain APO numbers a customs declaration must be completed by the sender.

Among articles that cannot be mailed overseas are matches and lighter fluid and certain military post offices prohibit cigarettes, tobacco products and coffee. Post offices can furnish mailing and parcel regulations upon request.

If addresses are legible and complete, preferably typewritten, there will be less chance of gifts going astray. Overseas parcels and Christmas greetings can be mailed between Nov. 1 and Nov. 20 for surface mails and air mail parcels can be sent between Dec. 1 and Dec. 10.

Knowles Sees Bigger, Better U. S. Economy

Purveyors of Doom Were Wrong, Beekeepers Told

Amid praises of Wisconsin, its agriculture and industry Thursday night, Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles emphasized that faith and foresight have brought the country out of the recession earlier this year and that the economy is ready for "bigger and better things."

Knowles spoke at the dinner and final session of the 2-day convention of the Wisconsin State Beekeepers association and its auxiliary at the Con-way hotel.

"The purveyors of doom were wrong," he said, "and the only thing in our economy moving downward today is unemployment. There is no place in the American way of life for defeatism or pessimism."

Knowles said personal income has reached an all-time high, farm income is up by 19 per cent over last year, homebuilding has stepped up and the stock market is booming. Wages and salaries have shown a tremendous increase in recent months and even teachers are getting more money, he said, although there still is a long way to go in the field of education.

Wisconsin Sound
"Our economy in Wisconsin is one of the soundest in the nation," he said. "There has been a tremendous growth going on in industry and on the farm."

He stated that today we produce more dairy and farm products, despite the fact that only 14 per cent of the people in the state live in rural areas and young people are leaving the farms for the city. This is due, he said, to the fact that farms are becoming larger, mechanized and more modern in operation.

Knowles told of the development of industries in the state, "springing up all over" to make more jobs available. He noted lake port cities are looking to the seaway. All these things are vital to the state's future, he said. These factors of growth are the built-in stabilizers of the state's economy.

AHS Debaters Begin Work

Debaters at Appleton High school have begun work on the 1958-59 debate question with the hope of trying out for the A squad or B squad of debaters sometime this month. Mrs. Emily Borchardt is the new debate coach.

Topic for the state this year is Resolved: That the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of education.

First open discussion on the question was held Monday afternoon. Several more informal discussions will be held before the debate squads are selected. Debaters this year plan to take part in district and invitational debates at various schools in the area.

West, Reds Can Coexist, Speaker Says

Russia Can't Afford Another War, Professor Contends

"Can the western world have peace with the red bloc? Yes—if we can escape a war in the next 10 or 15 years. And if we have no alarms more serious than Quemoy we can weather the next 10 or 15 years. In that time, the new bourgeoisie within Russia will be our allies."

That was the opinion of Dr. Albert Parry, head of the Russian department at Colgate university, who spoke Thursday before Lawrence college students.

Surprisingly, it has been red China rather than red Russia which has been rattling its saber lately, while Moscow has acted as a restraining influence on its southern ally, he said.

"I don't believe that Moscow wants a war. They cannot afford a war. Besides, they're winning quite a lot without a war. So why should they want a war?" Parry reasoned.

On the subject of red China entry into the United Nations, the speaker called for "imaginative offers of our own, offers that will allow both the Chinese and ourselves to save face."

Sparks From Leaves, Paper Set Noon Fire That Destroys Garage

Fire at noon today destroyed a garage at 802 N. Durkee street.

Firemen said sparks from a tub used to burn leaves and paper evidently set fire to the garage's contents.

The garage is at the residence of Mrs. Delores Gantner, and is owned by August A. Bohl, 1103 W. Lawrence street.

The tub was six to eight feet from the garage and the garage was being used temporarily to store household items while moving was in progress.

There was no estimate of damage, firemen said.

The blaze had gone too far, firemen said, to save the garage. Another garage, a foot away, was saved.

Girl Producer Tells Happy Success Story
BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Living proof that a talented, determined girl still can come to New York and make good in the theater is an exuberant young midwesterner named Patricia Newhall, one of the big town's few women theatrical director-producers, and "Quo Vadis."

Pat, who arrived in New York by way of Michigan, California and Europe, has produced three plays in the last two years — and all of them have been successful.

Pat wanted to be a producer. She started directing amateur productions at the Cranbrook Academy Art center, near Detroit, during her high school days there.

"Then I fell in love with a boy who thought I ought to cast the rent and show a go to college," says Pat. "So small profit."

I went out to UCLA and enrolled for a course in political science. Of all things. But Players, and they were successful, too. The theater only my neck in dramatics again, had 129 seats, so it wasn't working with the Circle Play-hard to fill."

This year Miss Newhall is "I kept trying the education producer and director of ambition, and went back to the University of Michigan to study "Blood Wedding," a Spanish ethics, but then I got bemused by the theater again and in Greenwich Village.

Creator of Eloise Discovers Role of 'Mother' Is Hectic

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

When Kay Thompson, a blonde and breezy night club singer from St. Louis, first wrote a book about Eloise, she little knew what she had wrought.

Since the birth of Eloise in 1955, the frantic Kay has had no time for singing or anything else except keeping up with the machinations of her brainchild, a little girl who lives at the Plaza Hotel in New York.

Since the first book, called simply Kay Thompson's "Eloise," there have been "Eloise in Paris" and now, just published, "Eloise at Christmastime."

"I just can't seem to keep up with Eloise," says her hypothetical mother. "If I had known all the things she would get me into, I'm not sure that I ever would have had her."

Busy Eloise
The commercial exploits of Eloise to date include: Eloise dolls, Eloise clothes, Eloise records, Eloise sheet music, Eloise French postcards, Eloise emergency hotel kits, Eloise two-legged stockings (for hanging up at Christmastime, natch), Eloise "bawth" towel sets and goodness knows what else.

The little girl who started out as the joint creation of artist Hilary Knight and Miss Thompson now has become a corporation, called Eloise Ltd., Kay Thompson president. In the corporation of offices, at the Plaza of course, you can hardly fight your way through the avalanche of dolls and merchandise to the desk most of her life, first on radio, of the wild-eyed president, then in clubs with the rest of "I've only got a minute," her act, the four Williams says Kay Thompson. "I've got to fly to London this afternoon. Eloise is just coming lywood, and appeared in the movie "Funny Face," with out there."

It seems Miss Thompson was singing at the Plaza's Persian room in 1955 when she met the young artist, never thought of writing a book. After the show they book," she says. "In fact I talked of this and that, and never thought of writing anything just for fun discussed the thing, except a good letter, strange life of a city child who 'I don't know how Eloise lived in a big hotel. managed to grow so big, so

"On the spur of the moment fast. People tell me she's sort we decided to do a book," of a modern-day "Alice in says Kay. "I gave Hilary just Wonderland." I'd hate to call a couple of lines about Eloise her a Frankenstein, but she —she's a city child, she lives scares me, just the same."

In the hotel, she has a nurse Close to a million copies of and a pet turtle—that sort of the Eloise books have been sold so far. The first printing "Well, Hilary took the notes of the current "Eloise at and went to Mexico. He came Christmastime" was 100,000. back with Eloise full-blown. And then there are the dolls and we got the book out that and the children's clothes and same year. Since then my life the records and all the rest. hasn't been my own."

"Don't ask me where we're Prior to the advent of Eloise going next," says Kay. "I ise, Kay had been singing wouldn't know. Ask Eloise."

The fall landscape of the Fox river skirting Lawrence campus was sketched by Pat Zimmer, left, and John Benkers, who perched on the slope outside the campus union. Outdoor drawings are being used by the budding artists for their indoor oil painting lessons.

Art is a serious business for Tom Callaway who concentrates on mixing just the right color for his picture. He is among 30 youngsters of intermediate elementary and junior high school age participating in the Children's Art program sponsored by Benefit circle of King's Daughters.

Gwen Spiegelberg paints foliage on her landscape. The children also will study figure drawing in their sketching and painting classes led by Mrs. Thomas Dietrich, wife of the artist-in-residence at Lawrence.

In Good Taste

Thoughtful To Invite New Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were invited to a reception given by the groom's mother in honor of the new bride—a stranger in town. I went to see the bride after the party but she has not returned my visit. I'd like to invite her, to something, but may I when she has shown no willingness to be friendly?

Answer: Don't judge her willingness to be friendly by the fact that she has not returned your visit, but by her manner. If she is really aloof or indifferent to you, more so than to others, then that is one thing, but otherwise give her at least the benefit of the doubt and invite her by all means.

Note Always Best

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter was married recently at a large church wedding. Two of her uncles who live in a distant city and could not come to the wedding sent telegrams. The wedding was over a month ago and now we hear from a cousin that my daughter should have sent a thank-you note for the telegrams. I thought it was only necessary to acknowledge wedding presents. Will you please tell me if these telegrams should have been acknowledged?

Answer: While not necessary as is a note of thanks for a present, she should have thanked her uncles for their telegrams. If the telegrams had been from friends of her own age, nothing more than a verbal thanks the next time she sees them is expected.

Depends on Value

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to return a pearl necklace to my former fiancé? I've been wearing this for some months and it seems curious to take it off and give it back. But my mother thinks it should be returned. Will you please tell me the correct thing to do?

Answer: If the necklace is not made of real pearls it need not be returned. The greater the value, the more certainly must it be returned.

Parents Tell of Daughter's Troth

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bonikowske, Niagara, formerly of Manawa, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan, 732 W. Packard street, to Donald Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jensen, route 2, Manawa.

Both young people are graduates of the 1958 class of Little Wolf High school, Manawa. Miss Bonikowske is employed at the Zwicker Knitting mills, and her fiancé is an employee of the A. Sturm and Sons plant, Manawa.

The couple has no definite wedding plans.

Tips on painting technique are given Carol Hueseman by Mrs. Thomas Dietrich, instructor. The teacher is assisted at the Saturday morning classes at Worcester Art center by Lawrence art education majors and Benefit circle members.

CAP Encourages Budding Artists

For the last three Saturday mornings, 30 upper intermediate elementary and junior high school pupils have gathered at Worcester Art Center to explore their artistic talents.

Fundamentals and painting skills are the lessons learned by the budding artists, under the guiding eye and hand of Mrs. Thomas Dietrich, wife of the artist-in-residence at Lawrence college.

The youngsters are participants in the Children's Art program, instituted three years ago by Benefit circle of King's daughters. Mrs. John B. Menn and Mrs. Russell Berggren are this year's circle coordinators.

Classes will continue for five more weeks, with Mrs. Dietrich assisted by Lawrence art education majors and circle members. The program will include an exhibition of the children's work and a trip to Layton Art gallery, Milwaukee, to view a display appealing to the youngsters.

The program is a non-profit project initiated by the circle to enrich and supplement art work offered to children in Appleton public and parochial schools. Tuition of needy pupils is financed by the circle.

Painting was a pelasure for Lynn Van Abel as she dipped color from palette to easel. The Children's Art program will include a display of the children's work at the close of classes and a tour to Layton Art gallery, Milwaukee.

250 Attend Fall Session Of Deanery

A group of 250 women attended the annual fall meeting of the Outagamie County deanery of the Green Bay Diocesan Council of Catholic Women at 8 p. m. Thursday at Holy Cross school hall, Kaukauna.

Mrs. Wetak, deanery president, reported on the national and diocesan conventions Miss Marie Haag, vice-director, summarized the work of standing committees.

Mrs. I. M. Theiss, Catholic Girls camp chairman, discussed the 1958 camp season at the Loon lake camp, and the Rev. Andrew Quella, host pastor, welcomed the assembly. Work groups conducted by deanery committee chairmen were held during the evening.

Holy Cross Altar society was in charge of the social closing the meeting.

Assisting Miss Weiss at the keyboard will be Robert Barnes of the piano department, while flutist Carole Wang Schroeder will join the other performers for an obligation to the final number.

The program, which is open to the public without admission charge, includes:

American Sisters Find Love, Happiness in British Isles

London — The former Ada Beckman of Berwyn, Ill., has been married to an Englishman since 1933. Her sister is married to a knight.

All this happened because of a British-American romance which flopped. Back home Ada had a girl friend who had met a charming Englishman in Chicago. They talked of marriage. The girl friend thought she ought to look him over on his home grounds first. She persuaded Ada to come along. That was in 1931.

The girl friend and the charming Englishman decided they were not for each other after all. But, Ada fell in love with her British travel agent, Les Murnane. This romance proved more enduring. They were married in 1933.

Three years later Peter Murnane was born. Ada took him back to America to show him off to her family. Upon her return she brought her sister Peggy for a look at England.

If this were a movie script it would be junked — you can only strain coincidence so far.

But Ada introduced Peggy to the charming Englishman's brother, Saville Garner, and another case of true love developed. Garner and Peggy were married in 1938.

The Garners have two sons and a daughter. Long in the British dominions office, he was knighted in 1954, turning Peggy into Lady Garner. He has been high commissioner (ambassador) to Canada since 1956.

The Murnanes had a second child, Suzy, now 20.

Despite long residence here, Ada dreams of living in America when she retires from her teaching job in a U. S. Air Force dependents' school in Middlesex. She also would like to see her children grow up as Americans.

Les, a fluent linguist, wants to retire to the south of France. He wants the children to be British.

"At the moment," said Ada, "the situation is in a state of compromise."

"We aren't ready to return yet, so we've laid that problem aside for the time being."

"Suzy won a scholarship to Vassar and Les agreed to let her go over there last year to study. That suits me."

"Peter qualified for an engineering course with one of the big British automobile companies, and I agreed to let him stay in England. That suits Les."

"In the end, of course, the children will have to make up their own minds about the future."

Latest Head Accessory—Wigs of Miracle Fibers

If a man chooses to call his best girl "old synthetic head" or some similar affectionate appellation this season, he may not be very far from the truth. For all the poor man knows, she may be wearing fashion's latest head accessory, a wig made of miracle fibers. It could be any one of many — a mixture of nylon and saran, dnyel, or tynex nylon, a new resilient fiber.

These wigs are late but dramatic starters, having been beaten to the fashion post by wigs of natural hair. But they're popular because they sell for a fraction of the cost of the real thing.

A girl who chooses one for a fashion accessory may settle for pink, one of the popular shades. If she dearly loves pink she may wear it from her wig to her toes.

Or perhaps she'll fulfill that lifelong dream and become a platinum blonde with very little effort. Ditto honey blonde or just plain ordinary blonde. She can be a girl with green hair too, if she likes.

Or perhaps she'll choose a synthetic wig of maize, or child, aqua, auburn, brown or a black topknot. They're all available.

Some girls have wardrobes of wigs, and fastidious types, we are told, include wigs to match their own hair exactly, to be worn after swimming when the hair is likely to be unmanageable.

These wigs are in the popular bouffant or bubble cut hair style, considered ideal for the new fashion silhouette.

The wigs are supposed to hold curl, having been treated to a permanent wave beforehand.

They may be worn with headache bands which hide the hairline, or if the wig matches the owner's hair it may be worn with the hairing drawn out to blend in with the wig.

Your Problems

Sharing the Wealth Problem Of Altar-Bound Employed Pair

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: We are two intelligent, mature people considering marriage. Each has been knocked out of the m a trimonial ring and we both want a victory this time.

My girl friend is an assistant buyer in a store. She makes Ann Landers good money and has no one depending on her financially. I'm a commissioned salesman who averages $150 a week. I settled with my ex-wife at the time of the divorce.

My fiancée feels that when a woman marries, her husband should assume complete financial responsibility. She claims we should live on my paycheck. Her earnings, she says, should be spent on whatever she likes. I say if a wife works, her money should be treated the same as his, and be considered part of the family income. Who's right?—ALTAR-BOUND

You are both wise to get this resolved now. Too many people stumble starry-eyed into marriage with the mistaken notion that love will conquer all. Money talk during courtship is not materialistic—it's realistic.

It's my opinion that when two people select each other out of all the world, for richer or for poorer, in sickness and in health, they should be willing to throw all the rocks in one box and share whatever is in it.

DEAR ANN: I'm a girl 16 with a great big problem. I started to date at 13. I thought I was the smartest person in the world and argued my mother down till she got tired of fighting, and let me have my own way.

I went with fellows who were too old and too fast. I got a pretty bad reputation and unfortunately most of the things they said about me were true.

Now I've met a wonderful fellow who moved here from another city. He's clean-cut. He makes us feel as if we are smart in school, and has doing something wrong. everything I want in a boy. For seven years I watched my four children go ragged. They slept in makeshift beds.

Today, after five years, we have a comfortable home with fairly decent furniture. We own a car, the children are adequately clothed and they get the dental care they need. In a year or so we'll be out of debt, and mother won't have to work any more. It will be a great joy to stay at home.

Not all mothers who work are running away from their children and the housework. Some of us are working in shops and offices because we have no choice. Say it for us, to work? There's a knuckle- headed woman-hater in our of- fice who slams us working mothers every chance he gets. Many thanks.

How to Wear a Stole

Yards of fur seem to have been the idea behind new stoles. Boa-stoles are so long you could wrap yourself in them and get lost. But don't.

Never let any stole, fur or fabric, blanket the you it is meant to adorn. To wear a stole to advantage, avoid either pulling it tight or letting it dangle. For when you do, both your figure and stole look lumpy.

Graceful effects are assured by these arrangements:

1. When it's warmth you want, drape a stole cowl-fashion across the back of your shoulders so that one end hangs lower than the other in front. Swoosh the short end across the chest and over the opposite shoulder. Control the long end by tucking it into the crook of your arm or wrist.

2. When decor is your sole purpose, begin as before with a cowl drape. Then let the short end fall free in front; and twist the long one around your wrist.

One additional tip: never don a stole by slinging it over your head. Finesse it, instead! Adjust your stole on one shoulder and by shipping your hand behind your back, slide it across to the opposite side.

$440,065 From Tax Levy Sought for County Road Work

The Outagamie county highway department plans to ask the county board Nov. 2 for $440,065 from the 1959 tax levy.

This is the amount approved by the county's executive committee, and is $2,843 less than last year's property tax levy request.

The total highway department budget—amounts spent, aids and incomes—totals several million dollars, but the budget presented to the county board each year details only the expenditures financed through the tax levy.

(The county highway department will get an estimated $257,400 in state aids and gasoline tax allotments for maintenance of the county trunk system. This is slightly more than the $253,211 received this year. The amount does not affect the highway department levy request except in the sense that no funds are appropriated from the tax levy for maintaining county roads.)

The county highway department asks $273,500 for construction on the county trunk highway system. That represents slightly more than half the cost of most projects falling under the federal aid program.

The highway department also asks $17,900 for the bituminous program on county roads, $30,000 for winter maintenance and $29,000 for administration costs of the department. Towns which requested the county to split the costs of bridges in their jurisdictions add $15,665 to the levy request.

Construction Planned

Construction projects set up for next year are County Trunk U between County Trunks DD and EE, 6.5 miles, county's share $99,000; County Trunk W from Highway 76 south two miles and west 1 1/3 miles, 3.3 miles, $83,000; County Trunk Z between the Brown county line and Kaukauna city limits, 3 miles, $66,000; County Trunk A between Highway 10 and County Trunk O, engineering and right-of-way, $6,000; County Trunk G from Seymour half a mile east and a mile north, engineering and right-of-way, $4,500; and County Trunk UU between County Trunks N and U, engineering and right-of-way, $15,000.

Bituminous work in the budget includes surfacing for County Trunk A between Highway 76 and Binghampton, 5 miles, county's share $15,000; and County Trunk X between County Trunk E and Little Chute, 6 miles, $36,000; and seal coats for County Trunk C between County Trunks E and S, two miles, $2,200; County Trunk G between Highways 47 and 187, 5 miles, $5,500; County Trunk J between County Trunks C and S, 6 miles, $6,600; County Trunk S for a mile west of County Trunk J, $1,100; and County Trunk VV between Isaar and the Brown county line, 5 miles, $5,500.

Winter maintenance is estimated to cost $112,000 for the rest of this year and 1959. The department has $62,279 left in the account, so is asking the board for $50,000.

Breakdown of the total winter costs shows $41,000 for snow removal, $26,000 for erecting and taking down snow fences, $31,000 for stockpiling and using sand, $11,000 for removing ice and $3,000 for hand shoveling. The major share of expense is slated for the January through April months, with $42,000 set aside for this. The fall months this year are budgeted for $35,000, the same months next year for the same amount.

Last year the county appropriated $75,000 for winter maintenance, but the difference is more a reflection of how much the previous season cost. Appropriations depend upon past experience and how much is left in the winter maintenance fund each year at budget time. The total appropriation for the fund is about $110,000 each year.

Department Budget

Costs of running the highway department—$29,000—include salaries of the highway commissioner, his administrative assistant and three office workers. The county board's highway committee takes $6,822 of the budget.

Town aid bridges usually are accepted by the highway committee without comment and there undoubtedly will be more presented to the board at its Nov. 3 meeting. The bridges, with cost split between county and town, now total $15,655 for the county share of 13 structures. Some of the bridges are built, others are being built and others planned. All of the costs in the budget are estimates, so some will change before the final budget is adopted.

Parish Collects $17,000 in Drive

St. Pius X parish has collected about $17,000 toward its $150,000 goal for a convent and school furnishings. Of the total, about $10,000 was pledged during a parish meeting and about $7,000 has been donated from outside the congregation.

According to Orville Briscoe, chairman, and Donald Samsa, co-chairman, the campaign is expected to be completed by Nov. 2. Solicitations for 3-year pledges will be made both inside and outside the parish.

County GOP Plans Caravan To Nixon Talk

About 50 members of the Outagamie county Republican party joined an auto caravan to Oshkosh today to hear Vice President Richard Nixon.

Mrs. C. C. Schroeder, Appleton, vice chairman of the Eighth District Republican organization will sit on the platform with Nixon.

Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles, in Appleton to crown the honey queen at the state beekeeper's convention Thursday night, the Outagamie county delegation.

The caravan left GOP headquarters, 304 N. Appleton street, street, Friday noon.

Nixon will speak at the Oshkosh airport between 2 and 3 p.m. In case of bad weather, the vice president will speak at South Park school, 1515 Delaware street, Oshkosh, near the airport.

Appleton Jaycees Hear Talk on City Industry Program

George Howden, division commercial engineer for the Wisconsin Telephone company, discussed Appleton's industrial development program in talk to the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Howden is president of the Appleton Industrial Development corporation.

About 20 new members were on hand for Jaycee introduction talks. The session was conducted by Don C. Smith and Philip Schwarz. New men will be inducted Nov. 11.

Injured Fireman May Leave Hospital Friday

Capt. Harold Kramer, overcome by smoke or poisonous fumes in the $15,000 Riverside Greenhouse fire Tuesday, probably will be released from the hospital today, Chief Neumann reports.

Kramer may have been overcome, his second injury in about 14 years, by a whiff of insecticide fumes that are poisonous upon inhalation or contact with the skin, firemen believe.

$50,000 for Employees' Pay Hike Approved

Contingent Fund Set at $60,000; Region Plan Up

The budget committee has approved $50,000 for salary increases next year for city employees. It's the same amount set last year and this year.

The contingent fund, in serious trouble this year, was raised from $45,448.93, of which $12,044.16 remains, to $60,000.

The fund this year was trimmed from $64,138.56 set for 1957 operations.

Regional planning costs of $17,072 were approved. This is an increase from an $8,000 appropriation this year.

Other Accounts

These other accounts also have been approved:

Elections, $10,775, down from $14,333 this year when $13,795 is the estimated spending total. There are four elections this year, only two next year. Part of the budget, $5,775, is an installment on the voting machines purchased in 1951.

Board of review, $432, down from $300 this year when $432 was spent.

Official printing, $14,000, up from $11,000 budgeted and $14,031.19 spent this year. A new state law that requires publication of ordinances establishing street grades caused the hike.

Hydrant rental, $78,000, a fixed charge controlled by the state public service commission.

Ambulance service, $2,000, a contract amount to subsidize the city's two private services.

Postage, $2,400, up from $2,100 budgeted and $2,396.16 spending this year. Increase reflects the federal hike in postal rates.

Picnic, $150, up from $100. Board activities required $150 this year.

Employee hospitalization insurance, $18,600, up from $13,500 budgeted and $18,609.67 spent this year.

City employees' picnic, $900, same as this year when $902.34 was spent.

Goodwill advertising, $200, compared to $200 budgeted and $150 spent so far this year.

Workmen's compensation, $22,000, up from $16,500 budgeted and $25,121.28 spent this year. A transfer from the contingent fund is needed.

Income tax claims by other cities, the account showing

$2,173.28 this year, was dropped.

Group life insurance, $3,400, up from $1,104 budgeted and spent this year. This year's payment was for only part of the year.

City attorney, $7,450, same as budget and spending this year.

Lift Station

Industrial development site, $11,050.40, up from $10,800 budgeted and spent this year. The demand is governed by contract.

Parking lot site fund, $8,100, down from $38,280 budgeted and $54,280 spent this year. It is offset by meter revenues and some $16,000 due from taxes for money taken to buy the Marston property for the vocational school.

Northwest sewage lift station, $4,680, compared to $500 which must be taken from the contingent fund this year.

University of Wisconsin extension center, $2,000, a 1-time payment promised this year, but put off to next year.

Memorial day committee, $450, same as this year when $439.13 was spent.

Flag day committee, $400, same as this year when $710.96 was spent. A transfer from the contingent fund is needed.

City band, $3,000, a fixed appropriation.

Insurance

Insurance for buildings, equipment and liability, $11,400, up from $6,550 this year when $6,190 was spent. About $2,000 of the increase is to pay for premiums contracted for this year, but put off.

Police pension fund, $6,600, up from $6,300 budgeted and $6,224.23 spent this year.

Tax rebates, $1,500, compared to $1,634.14 budgeted and spent this year.

Employee retirement fund, $47,500, up from $45,000 budgeted and $46,955.11 spent this year. The rate of city payment is fixed by the state.

Social security, $16,500, up from $13,500 budgeted and $15,424.80 spent this year.

Off-street parking lot work, $8,325, up from $7,350 budgeted and $8,429.52 spent this year.

Set $750,519 To Pay on City's Bonded Debt

Installment Total Up $226,357 Over This Year's Amount

The city's bonded indebtedness will cost $750,519 in principal and interest payments next year.

Budget committeemen were advised of the total by City Clerk Elden J. Broehm.

The demand is up $226,357.55 over this year.

Broehm said there is increase in principal payments from $387,000 to $527,000 and in interest payments from $137,161.25 to $223,519.

The clerk said the schedule includes $30,000 in principal for Oneida street drawbridge bonds on which bids will be taken Nov. 5. It also includes provision for bridge bond interest at a net effective rate of 3 per cent, the percentage advised by the city's bonding consultant.

Other Bonds

Other bond demands on the schedule:

Jefferson school, $55,000, the last payment.

Vocational school $22,000, leaving two more.

Franklin school $50,000, leaving 11 more.

Richmond - Lincoln schools, $45,000, leaving three more of $80,000 and six of $100,000 and four of $120,000.

Lave street bridge, $15,000, leaving six of $10,000, two of $25,000 and six of $30,000 and one of $35,000.

Library, $10,000, leaving 15 of $10,000.

Corporate purpose of 1954 (Foster school and storm sewers) $30,000, leaving nine of $25,000, one of $27,000, three of $30,000, one of $33,000 and one of $35,000.

Corporate purpose of 1955 (storm sewers) $30,000, leaving six of $25,000.

Corporate purpose of 1956 (Memorial drive bridge repair, southside fire station and sanitary sewers) $30,000, leaving two of $30,000 and six of $35,000.

Sewer bonds of 1956 and 1957, $45,000, leaving seven of $25,000 and 18 of $20,000.

Madison school, $70,000, leaving two of $70,000 and 16 of $75,000.

Huntley school, $55,000, leaving 18 of $55,000.

College-Candee bridge and sewer bonds, $45,000, leaving 19 of $45,000.

Town Balked

Grand Chute balked at hiring a consultant, but later agreed to have the commission explore the matter further. The town's principal objection was that Metropolitan, the consultant first proposed, was the only one considered up to then. It is expected the town will go along with the commission's action Thursday night.

Of the $42,000 budget total, $28,000 is for operation of the local office and $14,000 is for the consultant's fee for the first year. The amount for the consultant's fee is one third of the $72,000 cost of the master plan after a $30,000 donation pledged by S.F. Shattuck, Neenah.

The local office operating costs call for adding a senior planner and a draftsman to the staff. The present staff consists of the planning director and a clerk-stenographer. The budget also calls for $1,752 in new equipment.

Assessments

Assessments of participating municipalities are based on equalized valuation. Appleton pays 40.7 per cent of the budget, Neenah, 17.2 per cent, Menasha, 13.6 per cent, Kaukauna, 7.6 per cent, town of Menasha, 7.3 per cent, Kimberly, 4.4 per cent, town of Grand Chute, 3.5 per cent, town of Neenah, 2.2 per cent, Little Chute, 2.1 per cent, and Combined Locks, 1.3 per cent.

The maximum assessments for each year for the next three years would be Appleton, $17,110, Neenah, $7,224, Menasha, $5,733, Kaukauna, $3,175, town of Menasha, $3,074, Kimberly, $1,848, town of Grand Chute, $1,465, town of Neenah, $936, Little Chute, $890 and Combined Locks, $541.

The budget also goes to the member municipalities for approval.

ty owners, totals $8,534,000. The limit by law $17,602,156. The total is 48.5 per cent of the limit.

One budget committeeman questioned the lack of provisions in the schedule for $71,000 in vocational school bonds and $60,000 in northwest sewage lift station which are projected for early bid dates in January. To this also could be added an expected $250,000 in sewer bonds, it was said.

By not providing for payments next year, the city pays two years' interest on the issues at one time, it was said.

The question may be reopened later in the budget negotiations.

Grange Repeats Opposition to State Sales Tax

Wisconsin Convention Hits
Possible Postage Rate Boost

Oshkosh — State Grange members Thursday repeated their opposition to a state sales tax and asked the legislature to study the personal property tax laws "to correct inequities in it which have long existed."

Mrs. Isaac Hart of route 2, Neenah, was elected Flora to succeed Mrs. Carl Anderson of Peshtigo and Arnold Belling of Rosendale was named to a 3-year term on the executive committee. The state convention closed Thursday night with the adoption of resolutions and installation of the two new officers.

The Grange also protested any possible postage rate increase of from 4 to 5 cents for first class mail and suggested that second and third class mail rates be raised.

It also asked for more careful planning by governmental agencies in construction of roads, air bases and other governmental projects "in view of the rapidly diminishing amount of good farm land due to new subdivisions, roads, air bases and governmental projects." The resolution cited the large increase in food and fiber necessary to take care of an ever-increasing population.

Better Weed Control
In the farm program field the state Grange called for stricter enforcement of weed control in the soil bank program, offered full cooperation to all other farm organizations in working out a dairy program and urged that recommendations of the animal health subcommittee on stockyard sanitation be carried out.

The resolution on stockyard sanitation pointed out the same yards are used at times for breeding, feeding and slaughtering cattle, including the slaughtering of diseased animals.

5 More Homes Authorized In Menasha

62 Permits for Residences Issued;
Only 34 Last Year

Menasha — The number of new homes authorized in Menasha this year was increased to 62 today when five more permits were issued by Building Inspector H. O. Haugh.

Four of the permits were given to John Hoffke, Appleton builder. He will erect homes at 736 and 824 Arthur street, 923 London street, and 738 Milwaukee street. They will cost an estimated $12,000 each.

Wiegand Builders received permission to build an $18,000 home and attached garage at 846 Emily street.

A year ago only 34 homes had been authorized.

Oshkosh Requests Increase in Water Rates; Set Hearing

Oshkosh — The Public Service commission has scheduled a hearing at 10 a. m. Nov. 4 at Madison on the request of the Oshkosh water utility for an increase in rates.

The utility indicated it faces higher costs of $18,000 a year and wishes to improve its feeder main and distribution system at a cost of $398,000 build a $472,000 pre-treatment plant at Miller's Bay and make other plant improvements costing $30,000.

A 15 per cent increase has been asked, which would amount to 60 to 80 cents on a quarterly bill. The utility now sends out about 12,000 water bills each quarter, the major taking bond bids that day.

Scheduled for Nov. 4 at 2:30 p.m. at Madison is a hearing on the application of Kimberly-Clark corporation for exemption from the PSC's railroad track clearance regulations.

Menasha Students

Neenah Couple Awarded $17,500 In Damage Suit

Oshkosh — Reuben Klapps, Sr., and his wife, Ella, 804 Henry street, Neenah, were awarded $17,500 in circuit court Thursday in settlement of an accident case against Roy Stroemer, proprietor of the Neenah Taxi line, Gerald Hoks and their insurance companies.

A suit of Reuben Klapps, Jr., for damages was dismissed. Klapps, Sr., charged negligence on the part of a taxi-cab driver, Patrick J. Gunn, in a collision with Gerald Hoks at the corner of Adams and Henry streets in Neenah on July 19, 1957. All three Klapps were passengers in the Hoks car. Klapps had asked for $45,300 damages.

Neenah — The state public service commission has postponed until 10 a. m. Nov. 19 at Madison a hearing on the city's petition for an increase in its water rates. The hearing had been set for Nov. 5 but Neenah officials are taking bond bids that day.

Scheduled for Nov. 4 at 2:30 p.m. at Madison is a hearing on the application of Kimberly-Clark corporation for exemption from the PSC's railroad track clearance regulations.

PSC regulations call for a 15-foot clearance in tracks curving more than 16 degrees unless exempted.

Kimberly-Clark's Main Office Held its quarter century club dinner at North Shore Golf club Wednesday night. Participating in the dinner were, left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Jorgensen, John R. ## Bergstrom Paper Spends $1 Million

Money Used for Plant, Equipment;
Earnings Down but Over Industry Average

Neenah — Bergstrom Paper company is spending more than $1 million for plant and equipment this year, most of which already has been paid. Net sales for the nine months which ended Sept. 30 N. H. Bergstrom, company president, said today in a quarterly message to stockholders.

Earnings for the first three quarters of this year, although not as good as 1957, have held up as well or better than the average for the paper industry. The ratio of earnings to sales and earnings to net worth are both well above industry averages, he said.

He pointed out the firm did not experience until late in 1957 the decline felt much earlier by the paper industry. "A fact which makes the last year for the period comparison of the 1958 figures with 1957 stand up even better."

Due to increased orders, continued full operation is anticipated through the fourth quarter. "Labor and some raw material costs have increased without, at least to date, any increases in paper prices," Bergstrom declared.

The safety paper division has been moved from Waupun, Wis., to the new 45,000 square foot building adjacent to the finishing plant south of Neenah. All machinery was completely overhauled before erection in the new building.

Receive New Machine
In addition, he said, a new 6-color safety paper sensitizing machine was delivered to that division last week. "All of this greatly improves the

Testimony on Construction Of Dams Ends

Neenah Golf Course Owner States Dikes Diverted Slough

Neenah — Testimony on the request of R. C. Bridges, operator of the Bridgewood golf m. Nov. 11; Washington, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12; Roosevelt, 7:30 a.m. Nov. 13, Lincoln, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 13, McKinley, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 13, Wilson, 7 p.m. Nov. 12; Taft, 7 p.m. Nov. 12; this morning.

Bridges built two dams and diverted the path of the slough at the golf course several years ago without first obtaining approval of the public service commission. The commission held a hearing and denied Bridges the right to construct the dams.

The golf course owner then appealed for a new hearing which was held at Oshkosh in August and concluded this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schultz, route 1, Neenah, have protested the use of the dams, contending they back up slough water from flowing into Little Lake Butte des Morts flooding their property which is southwest of the golf course.

Claims Necessity Bridges testified he could not operate his 18-hole golf course without diverting the slough. Previously, the water would back up over part of the golf course in the spring months, he said.

He admitted he operated an 18-hole golf course over 150 acres at first and sold 50 acres for a housing development several years ago. Diverting the slough was necessary to again have an 18-hole course, Bridges contended.

Mayor Chester S. Bell told of the interest of city residents in having a golf course and said he had been assured that because of the addition of a pump at the north dam and gates at the south dam that stagnant water in the slough would be corrected. Installation of the dams

Neenah Schools Plan Education Week Programs

Neenah — Dates have been set for American Education week observance programs in the various grade schools and programs are being worked out by the individual schools. Hoover school's program Nov. 13 will mark an open house for its new addition. Its program will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Dates for the other programs are Kimberly, 7:30 p. m. Nov. 11; Washington, 7:30 p. m. Nov. 12; Roosevelt, 7:30 a. m. Nov. 13, Lincoln, 7:30 p. m. Nov. 13, McKinley, 7:30 p. m. Nov. 13, Wilson, 7 p. m. Nov. 12; Taft, 7 p. m. Nov. 12; and Neenah High school, 7:30 p. m. Nov. 12.

Pupils at Roosevelt school will display their work at its years ago without first obtaining approval of the public service commission. The commission held a hearing and denied Bridges the right to construct the dams.

The golf course owner then appealed for a new hearing which was held at Oshkosh in August and concluded this morning.

Menasha Filling Station Sold to Pate Oil Company

Menasha — Robert Carew, 220 Kaukauna street, today announced the sale of his service station at the corner of Kaukauna and Tayco streets, to the Pate Oil company, Milwaukee.

The Milwaukee company was issued a permit by Building Inspector H. O. Haugh to build a $14,000 2-bay station. Carew will manage the station.

He would not have an adverse effect on property within the city of Neenah, he said, adding on cross examination he had made no attempt to determine if it would harm any property south of the city.

Paul Bishop, an engineer for McMahon Engineering company, was questioned on a high water condition south of the dams on Easter Sunday, 1956. The size of the gates for the south dam had not been determined yet, he said, nor had the pump been put into use, pending the result of the hearing.

Also testifying as to water conditions and surveys were W. H. Cartwright, state hydraulic engineer, and William Sayles, a PSC engineer. Sayles stated that in his opinion the dams did not cause flooded conditions near the Schultzenkennels. Cartwright declared the pump at the northern dam would protect the golf course from flooding if there was any backup of water from Little Lake Butte des Morts into the Neenah slough.

Wisconsin State Grange Installed two new officers to close its annual convention at Oshkosh Thursday. Left to right are Erwin Travis, Whitewater, installing officer; Mrs. Isaac Hart, route 2, Neenah, new state flora; Mrs. Keith Clowes, Darien, installing marshal; and Arnold Nelling, Rosendale, new executive committee member. Named as state grange young couple of the year were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter, route 1, Fremont, below, members of the South Greenville Grange.

cattle, declaring such practices are not conducive to good health of livestock on farms.

It endorsed the self-help dairy plant sponsored by the national Grange as the "best approach to a long-term solution to the dairy problem" and added that "we abhor those who have so falsely labeled this plan as monopolistic."

Pointing out during the last several years while agriculture has been under the supervision of a government farm program, farm income has steadily declined, the state Grange urged "that farm operators and others interested in the future of agriculture who wish to have farm income in balance with other branches of our national economy support and strengthen our established farm cooperatives."

Endorsement of the commodity by commodity approach to the farm problem as proposed by the national Grange also was voted and it criticized the Area Development act to move industries from high employment areas to low employment areas since this would involve spending billions at a time when the nation has a deficit of $288 billion.

Water Resources Control The Grange went on record as favoring the basic riparian rights feature of the present water control law in any changes that may be made in that law "by certain groups trying to secure favorable legislation for their own selfish interests."

It asked that the state be given power to control the withdrawal of underground water for both domestic and non-domestic use and that any new legislation should protect the "interests of the general public in our water resources and maintain our lakes, streams, wetlands and underground water supply by more and better soil conservation practices."

The state Grange also called for standardizing Grade A milk inspection laws and urged the state department of agriculture to cooperation with the federal inspection service in standardizing inspection and to erase trade barriers and restrictions to allow the free and unhindered sale and transportation of milk and milk products throughout the nation.

It stated that both state and federal laws have created trade barriers which caused financial loss to many dairymen and creameries throughout the state and nation. Next year's annual convention will be sponsored by the Pomona Grange of Rock Walworth counties.

Neenah Enters Six Runners in M-E Loop Meet

Cross Country
Race Scheduled
On Shawano Course

Neenah — Neenah will enter six runners in Saturday's first Mid-Eastern conference cross country meet at Shawano's Shalagoco golf course. Each team is permitted seven runners with the top five counting in the standings.

Rocket entries, nominated by Coach Ole Jorgensen, are Jim Quade, Paul Poellinger, Tom Drews, Jerry Schaefer, Ralph Frank and Jon Halverson.

Quade, conference mile champion, has two wins in four meets this fall and he placed second to Appleton's Don Loker in the other two. Loker defeated him by a step each time. Poellinger finished third in all four meets.

The 10:30 a.m. meet will be the second last of the season for the Rockets who will close their season in the state run at Hartford a week from tomorrow.

All conference schools except Clintonville and Menasha will be represented in Saturday's venture. Cross country was adopted as an official league sport at the league's spring meeting. Two Rivers, Kaukauna, New London and Shawano had teams a year ago and Neenah and Kimberly adopted the sport this fall.

Reschedule Junior League Meeting

Neenah — The organization meeting for the Neenah Junior Church league has been rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Recreation building.

Teenagers in Emotional Pressure Cooker, Speaker Tells Parents League Unit

Neenah — "The teenager of today is in an emotional pressure cooker," Dr. Carl Waller, Madison psychologist told Neenah Parents league members Thursday evening.

The tension is caused by the constant demand to be part of the peer group and his own inner status to be recognized, he said.

The normal adolescent is trying hard to break away from controls, yet becomes confused when rules are not given, said Dr. Waller, explaining a period of insecurity goes along with adolescence.

When an adolescent performs a childish act, parents say, "You know better than that, act like a grown-up." But when he makes an adult request, he is told, "When you get bigger, you can do that." It is at this age, the adolescent sees the shortcomings, inconsistencies and faults of parents, pointed out by the psychologist.

What to Expect

In rights parents can expect of children, Dr. Waller listed assumption of responsibility around the house, knowledge of who his friends are, where he goes in his spare time, financial assistance if needed, evidence of party being planned. The next general meeting of the Parents league is set for March.

60th Anniversary Is Observed by Neenah Couple

Named by Fairchild As Chairman for 7-County District

Neenah — Supt. of Schools Harold B. Mennes has been named district chairman for Wisconsin's 1959 Brotherhood week observance. His appointment was announced by Justice Thomas E. Fairchild of the supreme court, state chairman for the observance.

Supt. Mennes will be responsible for the overall organization and execution of the Brotherhood week program and finance campaign in the counties of Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Marquette, Outagamie, Waupaca, Wausau and Winnebago.

Brotherhood week, sponsored annually since 1934 by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, is scheduled for its 26th annual observance during the week of Feb. 15 to 22.

Locally as well as nationally, the week will be devoted to programs emphasizing the basic concept that where there is understanding and respect, people of differing social, racial and religious backgrounds can work harmoniously together on matters of civic concern without in any way compromising personal or religious convictions.

Through committees to be named by Mennes, the National Conference of Christians and Jews will seek at least 420 such programs in the churches, community and other organizations of the seven counties. The year-round educational program of the national organization in this district will be sustained by a budget of $4,700 to be obtained by public appeal for voluntary contributions.

Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

I have been a user of classified advertising in the Post-Crescent for just 6 months, but I do want to write to you to express my appreciation of the wonderful results produced for me by my regular, daily advertising in your newspaper -- especially the outstanding response to my recent "Open House" advertising.

I ran two 3 column by 1 1/2 inch ads in the classified section of the Post-Crescent on successive Saturday nights. Really, Mr. Arthur, the results were fantastic! By actual count there were 2,307 interested persons attending these Open Houses!

I should add that Mr. George B. Cowling, the contractor-builder was also thoroughly satisfied with the results produced from our Post-Crescent advertising.

I would certainly be remiss if I did not give full credit for the planning and construction of our ads to Mr. John Felker of your Neenah-Menasha office. John spent considerable time working with all of us and contributed numerous ideas to help us successfully put our event across to the Fox Cities public. John is wonderful to work with, and has been of considerable assistance to me personally.

The interest your newspaper has shown in helping me succeed, has been, at the very least, heartwarming. It has certainly exceeded my expectations! My advertising in the classified section of the Appleton Post-Crescent proves the truth of your frequent claim

"Sell More Where More is Sold -- In the Post-Crescent"

Cordially,

Saturday's Schedule
Cornell at Lawrence.
Carleton at Ripon.
Monmouth at Coe.
Knox at Grinnell.

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Many of the fans who plan to spend their Saturday afternoon at Whiting field this week will no doubt be lured there by the prospect of eye-witnessing Lawrence college's annual football "shocker."

For, if the 1958 Vikes turn back Cornell Saturday, it will be tantamount to the unexpectedness of the '55 Vikes' 6-0 win over Carleton, the '56 Vikes' 34-21 win over Ripon and the '57 Vikes' 46-0 win over Knox. Each of these shockers was a home field production.

A Trying Task
The annual upset specials took the sting out of three consecutive non-winning seasons, and they account for half of the six victories the Vikes have posted since 1954—their last big year. (Since then, Lawrence has totaled only as many wins as it notched in that single season.)

Beating high-rated Cornell (whose 2-3 record belies the general caliber of its football thus far) would have been a trying task, in any event. But, since the Vikes lost regular backs Jim Schulze and Jim Leatham via injury, the chore has assumed even greater complexity.

With any kind of luck, Cornell could be enjoying a title-contending 4-1 record at this juncture of the race.

The Rams dusted off Knox, 27-0, and Grinnell, 26-14. They lost to St. Olaf, 13-8 (with mercury-footed Ron Altenberg out with injuries) despite outgaining the Oles, 269 yards to 182. Five fumbles led to their downfall against Monmouth (14-6) as they outgained 322 yards to 309.

Outgained Only Once
Cornell's other loss was 12-7 to unbeaten Coe. In that one, the Rams were outgained for the only time—343 to 207.

The Rams have clicked offensively for an average of 290 yards and 14.8 points. Defensively, they have permitted an average of 228 yards and 10.6 points.

Alternate directors of the Ram offense are Bill Robinson and Dick Snyder—both experienced juniors. They have done exceptionally well in the aerial department, too—completing 23 of 47 passes.

The big running threats are Altenberg and George Phelps, a 6-3, 215-pound junior fullback. Phelps scored eight touchdowns in his rookie season—three of them in a 46-7 romp over Lawrence. Thus far this season, Phelps has scored four times—which ties

Two Former Fox Cities prep football stars will be appearing in key collegiate games Saturday. Carleton's Jim Wink (above) sophomore center from Appleton, will play at Ripon in a Midwest conference "battle of survival." Carroll's Bruce Kemp (right) senior tackle from Kaukauna, will face Wheaton at Waukesha in the College Conference of Illinois' first-place duel.

St. John Clinches FVCC Title Share

Tops Marinette, 19-7; Tousey Scores Twice in 1st 3 Minutes

Little Chute — St. John High school clinched at least a share of the Fox Valley Catholic conference title for the third straight year by defeating Catholic Central, 19-7, at Marinette Thursday night.

It was the fifteenth straight game without a loss for Coach Bill Fitzpatrick's gridders. The Dutchmen finished the conference schedule with a record of three victories and a tie. If Menasha St. Mary trips Marinette in its last game, the Chuters and Zephyrs will tie for the crown as they did in 1956.

St. John scored two touchdowns in the first three minutes of play against Catholic Central and coasted the rest of the way.

Tim Tousey was again the sparkplug as he scored the first touchdown on the third play of the game. The fleet-footed halfback went off tackle 47 yards to paydirt. A bad pass from center muffed Tousey's try for the point from placement.

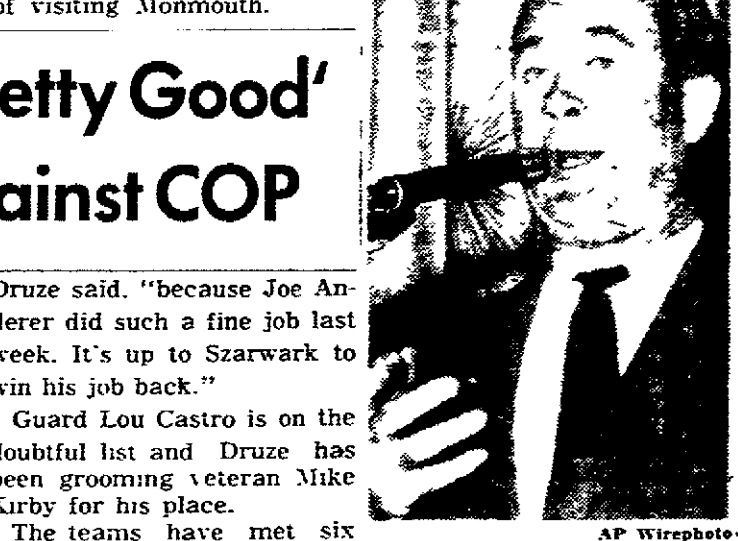

Three plays later, Tousey picked up a Marinette fumble on the St. John 30-yard stripe and cruised the entire 70 yards untouched. Quarterback Don Hermen plunged for the extra point to give St. John a 13-0 lead.

The final St. John touchdown came in the fourth quarter, when halfback Tom Verhagen scored on a 1-yard plunge. A running try for the extra point was stopped.

Marinette Central scored late in the final period when a pass from Hermen was intercepted by Bob Pecotte and returned to the St. John 10-yard line. On the fourth ground play Dave Coppish scored from the one. The extra point was run over by Bill Parris.

St. John was stopped within the Marinette 10-yard line once in the second quarter and once in the third.

Cie, which has beaten both Ripon and Carleton, will be favored to take its sixth straight victory at the expense of visiting Monmouth.

Undefeated Bucks Favored by 1 TD Over UW Saturday

Bruhn Says Wisconsin Has 'Different Attitude' This Week

Madison — (P) — With dreams of an undefeated season shattered and the scent of roses dissipated by brisk fall winds, the Wisconsin football team engages Ohio State Saturday.

Coach Milt Bruhn says his Badgers are ready. "The boys have their minds on the job at hand," the coach said Thursday. "There seems to be a different attitude this week and I feel they'll be ready."

In Ohio State the Badgers will encounter an undefeated team that has won four straight, but Bruhn said, "If we live up to our capabilities, there's no reason why we should have to take a back-seat to them."

Ohio State rules a one-touchdown favorite. The Badgers suffered their only loss in four starts last Saturday when beaten, 20-9, by a strong Iowa team that made a tremendous comeback after Wisconsin took a 9-0 lead in the first two periods.

Sharp in Practice
There were several factors contributing to the Wisconsin defeat, one of them the play of quarterbacks Dale Hackbart and Sid Williams. It was the first off-day for Hackbart after good performances in the Badgers' first three victories. The trouble was compounded when Williams also came up with an under-par showing.

Hackbart, who called most of the game, failed to establish any pattern in his choice of plays and his passing was off as he often overthrew his receivers.

But Bruhn thinks Hackbart and Williams worked out the troubles in one afternoon as he said: "Dale has looked real sharp in practice this week. So has Williams."

The pair will be facing a topnotch Buckeye quarterback, senior Frank Kremblas, a good student who has developed into a wise signal caller. When he missed the Washington game because of shoulder trouble, the Buckeyes managed only a 12-7 victory. He was in action as Ohio State came up with its best triumphs over Illinois, Southern Methodist and Indiana.

Wisconsin probably will provide the Buckeyes with their best test so far in the season. Washington has lost three of its five games and the other three Buckeye victims now have 1-3 records.

Ohio State power does not appear to be in depth, or even in a great first team, but in the brilliant play of a few individuals who refuse to quit no matter what happens.

Joining Kremblas on that list are halfback Don Clark, fullback Bob White and end Jim Houston. Halfback Dick LeBeau and center Don Frank can also be counted in the grouping.

Defensive Standouts
White and Clark are defensive standouts in addition to good ball carriers who have improved with each game. Clark started the fastest offensively, but White has steadily closed the gap.

Houston and Kremblas are also able on defense as well as being key parts of the Ohio State offensive machinery. All except Houston have been injured during the season and the absence of any one of them Saturday would be a decided handicap. If they are all sound, the Buckeyes rate the edge.

The only Badger listed as a doubtful starter is tackle Danny Lanphear, still nursing an ankle injury.

Saturday's game begins at 12:30 p.m. (CST) and will be broadcast.

Operate on Long For Double Cyst

Pittsfield, Mass. — (P) — First baseman Dale Long of the Chicago Cubs underwent surgery Thursday for removal of a double cyst on his back.

Long, a resident of nearby North Adams, had to undergo similar surgery after the baseball season on the past four years.

Newhouse Tops Nation In Passing

New York — (P) — Two St. Norbert college players are among departmental leaders in small college football statistics released today by the NCAA Service bureau.

Quarterback Ron Newhouse is the nation's top man in pass completions with 72. His favorite target, end Dennis Penza, has caught 26 passes for the lead in that category. Newhouse is third in total offense with 1,019 yards in six games.

Tebbetts asserted he has adopted a strict policy of non-interference with the labors

South Carolina Deals Clemson First Setback

Army 7-Point Pick Over Pitt in Big Saturday Clash

The handwriting is on the wall for those college football hot shots who think it may be an easy weekend.

Previously undefeated and tenth-ranked Clemson lost, 26-6, to South Carolina Thursday in their annual State Fair game. Clemson also lost the Atlantic Coast conference lead to Wake Forest, which has a 2-0 conference record and meets the Fighting Irish's thirtieth North Carolina Saturday.

Clemson is 3-1 in the ACC. The big game Saturday is at Pittsburgh, where unbeaten and top-ranked Army meets Pitt. Pitt is a 7-point underdog but faces an Army squad which is minus starting fullback Harry Walters and whose star halfback Pete Dawkins is badly limited by a severe charley horse.

Trophy in Balance

The Lambert trophy, which goes to the Eastern champion, hangs in the balance.

In the Southwest, fourth-ranked Texas travels to Rice. Rice is 2-0 in the conference, tied with idle Texas Christian (No. 16), while Texas is undefeated in five games and 1-0 in conference play.

Third-ranked Louisiana State, with a possible Southeast conference title game next week against sixth-ranked Mississippi, meets ever-dangerous Florida in an SEC game. While the Rebels play winless Arkansas in a non-conference tilt.

Auburn Meets Maryland

Auburn (No. 5) goes after a new win streak against Maryland, a 3-time shutout victim.

Two Big Eight games pit ninth-ranked Oklahoma against Kansas State, while twelfth-ranked Colorado is a touchdown choice over Nebraska.

The Midwest regional TV game has Purdue (No. 15) at Notre Dame (No. 11) in the Irish's homecoming day.

Seventeenth-ranked Georgia Tech, raring to go after trying Auburn last week, invades Dallas' Cotton bowl to play Southern Methodist, while Navy (No. 18) travels to Philadelphia to meet Penn.

Time Out with Mike Drew

Appleton High's assistant Football Coach Hurdis McCrory, Jr., tells a story about the days when his father, Hurdis, Sr., was playing football with the Green Bay Packers.

The incident took place about 30 years ago in "Curly" Lambeau's early days coaching the club. During a scrimmage one day, Lambeau stopped play and started "chewing out" the elder McCrory and current Packer General Manager Verne Lewellen for being satisfied to make just one block when on offense.

"After you make your first block, get up and knock someone else down," Lambeau was supposed to have said.

"If you block like that, when you're off balance," McCrory and Lewellen replied, "you'll hurt yourself."

"You're wrong," Lambeau asserted. "I'll show you what I mean."

At that point Lambeau entered the scrimmage. After attempting to make a pair of blocks on the first scrimmage play, he had to be helped off the field.

He had broken two ribs.

A sporting goods company sent Vike Coach Bernie Heseltan a set of free new-type shoulder pads with the statement that the pads could be subjected to the most thorough test possible and that they are guaranteed to stand up.

Junior end Doug Logan is acting as the "guinea pig," turning in his old pads for the new ones.

Football seems to be just the medicine needed by Lawrence's Mike Ullwelling to help cure a case of eczema which has been troubling the Appleton sophomore greatly for the past year or so.

The skin condition has been much improved since Ullwelling has been out for football.

Mike, who was bothered by hay fever early each season while at Appleton High school, seems to be having less trouble with the latter ailment every year.

AHS Coach Ade Dillon was reminiscing the other day about a game, 13 years or so ago, when the Terrors pulled one of the top upsets in all the years Dillon has coached here. The surprise was a 7-6 over Fond du Lac in Appleton, the only black spot on the Cardinal record that year.

A "big" figure in the AHS victory was a 123-pound sophomore quarterback, Don Boya. (Boya, of course, is now the Viking assistant grid coach). Others in the backfield were Rog Brandt and Bill Schuh at halfbacks and Reed Forbush at fullback.

Appleton insurance man Arnold Evans and his wife were guests of Mr. and Mrs. "Casey" Stengel during the

Vikes Hope to Stage Shocker Here Saturday

Season's 6th Best

'Dee' Tesmer Rattles 566 in Navy League

Altenberg has only two TDs to date but probably has visions of ballooning this total at the scene of his greatest collegiate triumph to date. Last May, the speedboy—who has done the 100 in 9.5 seconds—was a triple winner in the MC track meet at Lawrence.

This will be Altenberg's third visit here this year. The other occasion was back in February when the versatile ace scored 17 points as a basketball player. However, that total was not enough as Cornell became Lawrence's first cage victim in 37 games.

The Vikes are determined to step up their scoring rate—they've counted only one touchdown in each of their four losses. In order to gain this end, they must beef up their ground and air attack, which has produced an average of only 191 total yards a game (10 below their 1957 average). Their scoring pace (7.5) is also behind last year's (14.3).

A Big Team

It will be quite a feat if the Vike offense does bust loose this week. For, not only will a makeshift backfield be moving the ball, but Cornell has one of the biggest—if not the biggest—teams in the MC. The four interior linemen and linebackers average close to 220 pounds a man.

Quarterback Schulze, with a foot sprain, has been declared medically unready to play. He has had a direct hand in each of the four Vike TDs this season.

Dick Ramsey, a battling junior who has played several positions this season, will likely alternate at QB along with Mike Gilboy, a potentially strong junior passer.

The speedy Leatham, a big kickoff and punt return threat and good pass receiver, will be kept out of the next several games because of a knee injury.

Mike Ullwelling, Appleton sophomore, is slated for offensive right half duties in addition to his normal line-backing assignments.

Coach Bernie Heseltan indicated Thursday there was an outside chance Schulze would suit up and might be available for a spot assignment—such as passing.

However, it looks as though Lawrence will go to the post with only six backs able to play—and this hardy half-dozen includes defensive man Charlie Scroggins who has an ailing ankle. The problem became more acute this week when reserve Ashley Haase—who saw a good deal of defensive duty against Carleton—was banged up.

Heseltan-coached teams have lost only twice to Cornell in nine games. They've come in the last three years—14-7 in 1955 and 46-7 last year.

The latest Vike win in the series came in 1956 as the invading Rams were handled in a surprising manner, 20-0.

The MC scoring leaders:

Schmucker, Carleton 6 TD 54
D. Smith, Ripon 6 0 36

Senators' Hyde Is Top Relief Hurler in AL

Bucs' Eloy Face Gains Best Rating in NL

New York —P— Dick Hyde, a sophomore submarine specialist who helped seal 48 per cent of Washington's victories, and little Roy Face of Pittsburgh were the top relief pitchers in the major leagues in 1958.

Hyde, 30-year-old right-hander, won 10 games and saved 19 others for the last-place Senators. He had an earned run average of 1.75 for 103 innings. Washington had a season's total of 61 victories.

Face saved 20 games for the Pirates, who finished a surprising second in the National league. The 5-8 right-hander also was credited with five triumphs in relief assignments. He wound up with an ERA of 2.89.

Ryne Duren, bespectacled reliever ace of the champion New York Yankees, produced 19 saves and won six games in a fine rookie season. Duren struck out 87 batters in 76 innings and compiled a 2.01 earned run mark.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press also disclosed today that Clem Labine of Los Angeles saved 14 games and Leo Kiely of the Boston Red Sox and Marv Grissom of San Francisco 12 each. Grissom was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals earlier this month.

Hawk '5' Weathers Late-Game Storm To Triumph, 104-103

St. Louis —P— The powerful St. Louis Hawks received a severe jolt to any tendency toward overconfidence but managed to win their opening National Basketball association game Thursday night.

The Hawks, defending champions of the NBA, almost blew a 15-point lead in the final three minutes and escaped with a 104-103 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

The hair-raising finish, during which the Pistons scored 14 straight points, left freshman Coach Andy Phillip of the Hawks and 8,326 fans limp.

George Yardley, the Pistons' league-scoring champ last season with 2,001 points, led both teams with 28, but was held scoreless during Detroit's late surge. Bob Pettit was high for the Hawks with 23.

Win 1st Undisputed Loop Crown; Roosevelt Trips Wilson, 12-0

FOX VALLEY FRESHMAN LEAGUE
(Final 1958 Standings)

Neenah	1	4	Wilson	1	5
Roosevelt	2	3	Kimberly	2	4
Kaukauna	3	2	Menasha	3	1

Thursday's Results:
Neenah 51, Kimberly 12.
Roosevelt 12, Wilson 0.
Kaukauna 7, Menasha 6.

Neenah — Neenah scored the first time it had its hands on the ball and was in control all the way to defeat Kimberly, 51-12, in the Fox Valley Freshman league finale here Thursday. The victory gave the Rocket frosh their first undisputed league title and their initial perfect season as well.

Winn Zimmerman raced 60 yards with a Kimberly punt after the Papermakers failed to gain on the first series of plays.

On the first play of the second frame, Steve Hildebrand went around his right end for six yards on a keeper play for the second marker. Later in the period, Joe Began dashed 31 yards to score for an 18-0 halftime lead.

Howe Runs 45
A 45-yard run by Dale Howe inaugurated Neenah's third quarter scoring. Dick Dietrich booted the extra point. A few plays later John O'Leary went 25 yards into the end zone. Jan Pollnow passed to Dietrich for the extra point.

Coach Charlie Shepard inserted his third stringers and on the initial play Kimberly's Rick Polman went 55 yards for a TD. Still in the third period, Jim Hedlund of the Rockets went over from the two for a 38-6 tally.

Kimberly's second touchdown came on a 45-yard run by Gene Robinson and it was followed by two TD runs by Winn Zimmerman, the first of 55 yards and the second 35 yards with an intercepted pass.

Roosevelt Finishes 2nd
Roosevelt punched over a touchdown in the second quarter and one in the fourth to blank arch rival Wilson, 12-0. Thursday afternoon in a steady rain on the Wilson field.

Roosevelt finished the season in solo possession of second place in the Fox Valley Freshman league. Wilson wound up fourth.

Roosevelt's first TD came on a 4-yard fourth down pass from quarterback Gene Sipple to end "Chips" Dostal in the second quarter. Fullback Cary Anderson's plunge for the extra point failed.

Wilson put together its best drive in the third quarter, taking over on its own 26 and moving to the Roosevelt 20 where the march stalled.

Roosevelt took possession and moved to its own 25 where, on the first play of the fourth quarter, halfback Dave Emerich broke loose around his own right end, behind good interference, and sprinted 75 yards for a TD.

A running try for the extra point again missed connections. Emerich gained 150 yards rushing for the best individual showing of the day. Wilson halfback Tom Wenneman picked up 45 yards in 15 tries for his club's best effort.

Roosevelt had eight first downs to Wilson's five in the hard-socking defensive game. Roosevelt end Tom Hayes and linebackers Bill Helein and Anderson turned in good defensive performances. Middle guard Pete Wenzel and tackle Norman Barlow and Howie Cohodas were top defenders for Wilson.

Ghosts Shade Jays
Menasha — Kaukauna thwarted Menasha's bid for its first Valley Freshman Football league victory by scoring in the last two minutes to defeat the Jays, 7-6, here Thursday afternoon.

The victory gave the Ghosts a 3-2 league record while Menasha finished winless in five starts.

The Bluejays scored the first time they had the ball with a short plunge by Bob Opsahl. Jim Cook was stopped short of the goal in his attempt to carry over the extra point.

Kaukauna got its winning drive going in the fourth quarter which wound up with Bill Jirikovic tallying from the one. He also scored the tie-breaking extra point.

Menasha moved to the Kaukauna 8 but time ran out before it could score. The Jays were on the Ghosts' 11 when the first half ended.

Clock Don Campbell's Boat at 201.5 m.p.h.

Lake Coniston, England — Donald Campbell, British speedboat king, roared his jet hydroplane Blue Bird across Lake Coniston at 201.5 miles per hour early today—far short of his 239.07 world record.

"The conditions were not good enough," he said afterwards. "At 201 m. p. h. she was dancing all over the lake."

Campbell set his world record over the same Coniston water on Oct. 11 a year ago. He indicated that he was trying for over 300 m.p.h.

Roosevelt's Leading Ground gainer in Thursday afternoon's Fox Valley Freshman league game with Wilson, Dave Emerich, picks up 11 yards before being tackled by Wilson's Tom Wenneman and an unidentified tackler (on the ground) late in the first quarter. The play was part of Roosevelt's drive to its first touchdown in a 12-0 victory.

Danny Remembers Meyer

AP Selects Murtaugh As Top Manager of '58

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

Chester, Pa. — In the midst of congratulations over his selection as The Associated Press' Manager of the Year, Danny Murtaugh re-remembered another Pittsburgh manager today. "Bill Meyer helped me an awful lot," the sharp-featured, 41-year-old Pirates manager said at his home here. "Toward the end of my career, I got to thinking about wanting to be a manager. Billy would let me sit next to him on the bench. He gave me all sorts of advice, told me why he did things."

Best Since '44
"Bill was a good baseball man," Murtaugh, former second baseman, who never played for a major league team that finished higher than fourth place, was named "Manager of the Year" Thursday for his feat of leading the unheralded Pirates into second place in 1958. The 84-70 finish, eight games behind the pennant-winning Milwaukee Braves, was the Pirates' best since 1944. They finished in a tie for last place in 1957. It was Murtaugh's first full season as manager.

He succeeded Bobby Bragan Aug. 3, 1957.

The stocky, 5-foot-9 manager played for the late Meyer in 1948, when the Pirates finished fourth and Meyer was acclaimed Manager of the Year. It was the only time in seven full seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies and the Pirates that Danny played on a first-division club. He played briefly for the Boston Braves in 1946.

Murtaugh started his managing career with New Orleans of the Southern association in 1952.

He received 149 votes in the Associated Press poll of sportswriters and sports broadcasters. He became the first manager to be chosen in competition with managers of both leagues. Previously, the Associated Press poll selected one manager in each league.

Bill Rigney, of the third-place San Francisco Giants, was second to Murtaugh with six votes. Fred Haney of Milwaukee and "Casey" Stengel of the championship New York Yankees each collected five first-place nominations. Al Lopez received four. Jimmy Dykes, who finished the season at Cincinnati, Harry Craft at Kansas City and Joe Gordon, who completed the year at Cleveland, one each.

Packers Make Five Changes

place of Ray Nitschke. Nitschke and Dan Currie are candidates for an outside linebacker spot.

Remember Dick Bielski? He was the meanest, the roughest, the hardest running fullback ever turned out of Maryland!

He's an offensive end now with the Philadelphia Eagles. Why? He can catch a pass and block. And the Eagles inherited some hotter backs since the New Jersey athlete moved from Maryland to Pennsylvania in '55.

Bielski never carried the ball from scrimmage in '57 but late in the season he was tried as a slot back and/or end. He caught eight passes in the last three games for 81 yards and two touchdowns. This went on unbeknownst to Green Bay since our Packers didn't play the Eagles in '58. Bielski wasn't a pass catcher in the Packers-Eagles game here last Labor day.

No. 1 Draft Pick
Bielski, an Eagle No. 1 draft choice, might play an important part in Sunday's Packers-Eagle league match since he's listed as a starting right end and slot back. With Andy Nacrelli gone, Bielski ranks as one of the three ends along with Bobby Wadston (left end) and Pete Retzlaff who plays right end or slot along with Tommy McDonald.

Coach Buck Shaw decided after the Eagles' second game this season that his team needed a big tough offensive end the size of Bielski. The 220-pound former fullback, who stands a half-inch over six feet, played considerably and caught three passes for 43 yards, the longest 30 yards.

League-Leading Montreal Blasts Blackhawks, 9-1

By the Associated Press

The honeymoon apparently is over for the Chicago Blackhawks.

After winning three and tying one of their first four games in the National Hockey league, the Hawks now have lost their last three and are in third place following a 9-1 humiliating setback Thursday night at the hands of the pace-setting Montreal Canadiens.

The Hawks could have moved into a tie for first with a victory but instead they fell back a notch as the Detroit Red Wings downed the Boston Bruins, 3-1, in the league's only other game.

Lawrence Says:

Hidden Issue In Race for Congress Seats

Choice Is Between Government by Law or by Men

By DAVID LAWRENCE

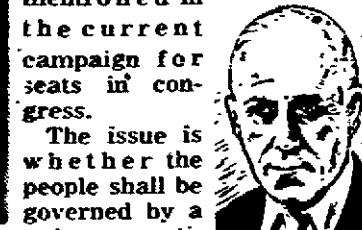

Washington—The biggest issue confronting the American people today is rarely being mentioned in the current campaign for seats in congress.

The issue is whether the people shall be governed by a written constitution which is subject to change only by their will or whether that constitution shall be rewritten by the supreme court justices to suit their personal or ideological whims.

This is the same issue which caused a stir in 1937 when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, declared that congress should enact a law which would have the effect of increasing the number of justices by six so he could appoint new judges who would conform to his views.

The congress rejected the proposal, but Mr. Roosevelt was able a few months later to "pack" the court through the vacancies that occurred. Many of the professors and deans of the law schools, and certainly many of the "self-styled liberals" of those days, felt then, and many still feel, that the supreme court should change the constitution at will.

A notable exception is Alfred J. Schweppe of Seattle, a former dean of the law school of the University of Washington, a former president of the bar association of the state of Washington, and at present one of the editors of the American Bar Association journal. He writes in the current issue of "U.S. News & World Report":

Rejects Idea
"I absolutely reject the idea that the supreme court has the power to rewrite the constitution according to its concepts of sociological or economic change. That is what the amendatory process is for. I do not accept justice Douglas's blunt view that the amendatory process is 'too slow' as anything but a violation of the oath to support the constitution in all of its parts."

The reference was to a speech by justice Douglas in the 1949 in which he attempted to defend the supreme court's wholesale overruling of prior decisions and said: "It must be remembered that the process of constitutional amendment is a long and slow transition."

This was precisely FDR's argument in the "court packing" fight, and justice Douglas was one of his later appointees when a vacancy occurred.

It is not improper to criticize the decisions of the supreme court. It's justices have often conceded this point themselves. On August 23 last the chief justices of 36 states approved a report which said: "We are not alone in our view that the supreme court, in many cases arising under the fourteenth amendment, has assumed what seem to us primary legislative powers."

... we do not believe that either the framers of the original constitution or the possibly somewhat less gifted draftsmen of the fourteenth amendment ever contemplated that the supreme court would, or should, have the almost unlimited policymaking powers which it now exercises. . . .

"It has long been an American

Janet Runge Pounds 592 At Sherwood

Janet Runge knocked over the pins at a 592 velocity in the Sherwood Women's league earlier in the week. She blasted a 211 and a 197 loner along the trail for the Sherwood Wreckers (15-6) which hold a 3-line circuit lead.

Lois Mahn of Van Thell's unloaded a 207 solo and a 550 set.

In the Twelve Corners American circuit, Bob Nettekoven fired a 585 for the Twelve Corners Tavern. Bill Jens pasted a 562 for first place Schwalbach Bar (13-5). Monroe Dalke slugged a 233 for McCabe Tavern.

can boast that we have a government of laws and not of men. We believe that any study of recent decisions of the supreme court will raise at least considerable doubt as to the validity of that boast."

This was perhaps the most important document issued in recent years in criticism of the court. Incidentally, the report did not mention any segregation cases but confined itself to usurpations of power by the supreme court in many decisions involving federal and state relations.

Harry Belafonte Set For Nov. 9 Allen Show

Singer, Resuming Career After Eye Surgery, To Get 20-Minute Segment All to Himself

BY JINGO
Harry Belafonte will make his first television appearance in two years on the Nov. 9 Steve Allen show. He'll have 20 minutes in which he will sing a wide range of songs. The selections will include West Indian folk melodies, American Negro work songs, blues and standard popular love songs. Belafonte's "Calypso" was the first long-playing record album to sell a million copies. It was one of eight he has recorded for RCA Victor.

Jingo

The singer, star of Hollywood's "Bright Road," "Carmen Jones" and "Island in the Sun" and Broadway's "Three for Tonight," underwent surgery for an eye ailment in August last year and is resuming his career.

More Peeking Ahead: Lucille Ball teaches Aldo Ray how to box in an upcoming "Desilu" segment. It'll be the first show in which she appears without her husband Desi. Gloria Swanson is Bob Hope's guest for his Nov. 21 show. Mickey Rooney is trying to sign Judy Garland for his Dec. 12 special. Eve Arden is down for Dinah Shore's Jan. 18 program. Garry Moore will show you how much he looks like old-time dead-pan comedian Buster Keaton during his show next week.

Singer Tony Bennett will make his dramatic debut in an upcoming Danny Thomas story specially written for him. "Voice of Firestone" on Nov. 3 will devote the entire program to highlights from "Samson et Delila." Rise Stevens and Barry Sullivan will sing. Milton Berle has Jimmy Durante booked for Nov. 12 and Sammy Davis, Jr., for Oct. 29. Eddie Fisher will have George Gobel and Betty Hutton next week. Ethel Merman and Gary Crosby on Nov. 11 and George Burns and Dean Martin on later dates. Pat Boone will sing for Queen Elizabeth II in London on Nov. 3. Janet Blair will star in "Alcoa Theater's" Christmas story, "The First Star." Louis Jourdan also has a Christmas assignment. "The Fallen Angel," for "GE Theater," "GE Theater," by the way, again will rebroadcast the James Stewart cowboy version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Helen Hayes, Judy Holliday and Singer Connie Francis are Arthur Murray guests next week. Steve Allen has Count Basie and Anna Maria Alberghetti lined up for his Nov. 16 effort.

NBC-TV will broadcast the Iowa-Notre Dame game Nov. 22, but has not announced the teams for a national showing of Big Ten teams Nov. 1. Burl Ives is a Nov. 8 guest of Perry Como. Eddie Alpert in next week's "Goodyear Theater" story, "Lazarus Walks Again." David Niven is a sinister comforter of a widow in a "Zane Grey" episode Oct. 30. Michael Rennie and Barbara Rush star in "The Connoisseur," story about a perfectionist who makes murder an amusing game, on "Lux Playhouse" Oct. 31.

California candidates for governor, William Knowland and Pat Brown, will "Meet the Press" together on Nov. 2. Each will be interviewed separately for 15 minutes. Jackie Gleason will take his own jazz band on tour when the TV season ends. Jack Benny is George Burns' guest next week. Pro hockey will continue Saturday afternoons for 19 more weeks on WBAY-TV. Pro basketball on WMBV-TV will continue through 18 more regular and four play-off contests on Sunday afternoons. The "free" TV airwaves won't bring this week's Packer game on WBAY-TV. Closest you'll get to Packer action is a review on the "Quarterback Club" of a "recent" victory—probably the 1952 Eagle game again.

Family Split Told by Mother Of Liberace

Refuses to Attend Shows of Either Son Until Together Again

BY JAMES BACON

Hollywood — P— One of show business' closest families—Liberace, brother George and their mom—is split wide open. The sharp wrench in their highly publicized devotion was revealed today by the mother, Mrs. Frances Liberace, a former Menasha resident. Her brother, Felix Zuchowski, lives at 353 Broad street, Menasha.

The toothy pianist and his violin-playing brother parted professional company a year ago, but it was not known until now that mom, too, was swept up in the family differences.

Watches Neither Son Mrs. Liberace, once her sons' No. 1 fan, said she has refused to attend Liberace's shows since the boys broke up their act.

"I love both my boys," Mrs. Liberace told a reporter. "They have both been wonderful to me. But I cannot watch either until they are back together again."

She added that she does not even watch the pianist's new daytime ABC-TV show, "It would break my heart," she said. "Always since little boys, they were so happy together."

Mostly Alone The mother lives alone most of the time, protected only by around-the-clock guards in Liberace's $100,000 Sherman Oaks mansion. The guards have been on duty since she was beaten up by mysterious assailants more than a year ago.

"Lee lives in Palm Springs most of the time," she said, "surrounded by a gang of what I call hillbillies and freemasons."

She did not identify them but said they were mostly responsible for the breakup with George.

Robert Montgomery To Direct Stage Play New York — P— Robert Montgomery, veteran film star and TV producer, has signed his first stage stint as director of "The General's Other Son."

Actor Cary Grant, 54, and his actress wife, Betsy Drake, 35, announced their separation after nine years of marriage. The couple is shown at London airport in 1957.
